

WPA Workers Back on Jobs In Some Areas

'Holiday' Spreads in Milwaukee and Madison Regions

DISCUSS RELIEF

Hundreds Returning to Work in Winnebago County After Vote

Milwaukee — (P) — WPA workers in some Wisconsin communities returned to their jobs today while those in others, notably Milwaukee and Madison, walked out in protest against newly enacted federal legislation increasing their hours of labor.

In the Milwaukee district, comprising six counties, 19,000 persons remained on strike for the second day. Virtually all projects were inoperative. About 90 per cent of the workers reported at their work sites this morning, then left.

Many of the Milwaukeeans went to Soldiers Home for a mass meeting, where speakers protested voluntarily against the hour increase.

Meanwhile, officials of the county outdoor relief department discussed the question of relief for the strikers.

The strike came into Outagamie county yesterday when six WPA workers in the town of Grand Chute and three at Kaukauna left their jobs. This morning 30 WPA workers at Little Chute quit work.

Lytle Webster, supervising timekeeper, said that under instructions from the district office the men will be given five days in which to return to work or be replaced by other workers.

Most of Winnebago county's 1,200 WPA workers were back to work this morning after a 2-day protest strike against increased working hours with no boost in pay, according to R. P. Williams, WPA area engineer at Oshkosh.

Secret Ballot

The decision to return to work was made by secret ballot at a mass meeting last night at Oshkosh city hall when workers voted, 153 to 118, to return to their jobs.

Williams said that those who did not return to work within five days would be dropped from the WPA roll.

The secret ballot climaxed a half day of excited demonstration in which the group heard speeches from its committee, union labor organizers and individual workers who were successful in reaching the platform to expound their views.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, workers from all of county projects convened at the site of the old county courthouse and in spite of the heat waited patiently until the chairman of the temporary committee, Arnold Peterson, Oshkosh, called the out-door gathering to order.

The minutes of the meeting held in the morning in Congressman Frank B. Keefe's office at which the congressman and Philip Flanner, state WPA administrator, were present, were read to the workers.

Told to go back to work, Peterson then called upon Lawrence C. Carlstrom, Milwaukee, state president of the CIO to address the crowd. Carlstrom urged the workers to go back to their jobs under the filed protest and to organize among themselves for future protection.

Peterson called for a motion to decide whether the group wished to return to work today but it was lost by a heavy negative vote.

Percy Marsceau, Neenah, stated in a conversation with Flanner he was told that the state would lay off 4,500 men before July 8.

"That being the case," Marsceau said, "I'm taking my layoff now by not going back to work tomorrow. We'll be laid off anyway after July 8."

Trouble loomed when the problem of obtaining direct relief was mentioned. Peterson stated that he had heard a rumor that the Osh-

Leaders Agree to Erase Provision For Foreign Loans

Critics Will Not Oppose Increase in Export-Import Bank Funds

Washington — (P) — Administration leaders were reported authoritatively today to have agreed to eliminate a provision for $500,000,000 in foreign loans from legislation authorizing the president's lending program.

As a result, some critics of the foreign loan proposal were said to have given assurances they would not oppose an increase of $100,000,000 in the Export-Import bank's funds.

Calculated to eliminate much of the criticism which greeted the president's program in the senate, the move to compromise the foreign loan provision was credited to Jesse Jones, administrator of the new federal loan agency.

Senator Borah (R-Idaho) was understood to have told Jones he would not oppose the Export-Import bank increase if the money was made available only to American exporters and no funds were to be loaned to foreign governments.

Borah Leads Attack

Borah led senate criticism last week of the president's proposal to advance $200,000,000 next year and $300,000,000 the following year. This would have gone chiefly to South American governments to promote our foreign trade and to finance development and reconstruction projects in Latin American nations.

Senator Austin of Vermont, acting Republican leader, said if the compromise was affected, Republican opposition to the lending proposals would be weakened.

Several other senators agreed removal of this issue would help clear the air, already filled with criticism of administration foreign policy in connection with pending neutrality legislation.

Borah told the senate yesterday it should not be swayed by either the "democrats" or the "dictatorships" of Europe in considering the administration's proposal to repeal the arms embargo of the neutrality law.

He argued that the traditional American policy was one of neutrality, and added that "it should be maintained for the interests of no foreign nation."

Experts Express Fear of Conflict

'War Psychosis' Is Described as 'Most Depressing Thing'

Chicago — (P) — Several experts on international affairs, among a group of more than a score assembled at the University of Chicago for the Norman Wait Harris Foundation, today expressed fear a European war might be touched off by the end of the year.

The views of these men, representing a well informed cross section of opinion, were expressed frankly at an informal luncheon yesterday.

Arthur Sweetser, for many years in the information section of the League of Nations, asserted the "most depressing thing in Europe today is the war psychosis on all sides, the feeling so many quarters that war is inevitable."

He said it was his opinion, however, that danger of war lay more threateningly in the possibility of a political or economic accident, or misstep, than in a desire of any nation or person in power for war.

Samuel N. Harper, professor of Russian language and institutions and son of William Rainey Harper, said:

These two little sisters, Sandra Ann Day (left), 2, and Colleen Day, 3, sat comparatively high and dry after the "flash" flood at Morehead, Ky., but they cried tearfully for water — for drinking purposes only. After 55 bodies had been recovered, 41 persons were reported still missing in the eastern Kentucky area.

Californian Says 34 Senators Sign Declaration to Oppose Changes in Neutrality Law

Washington — (P) — A declaration which Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) said was signed by 34 senators stated today that the group would fight any change in the existing neutrality law "by every honorable and legitimate means at our command."

The statement was issued by Johnson after a conference in his office with other senators. It was interpreted immediately as a threat to engage in a prolonged debate on administration neutrality proposals. Some senators said they considered it an open threat of filibuster.

The declaration said: "We are unalterably opposed to the repeal or modification of the present neutrality law prohibiting the sale or exportation of arms, munitions or implements of war to nations engaged in war."

"We are against any discretion being lodged in the hands of any chief executive to determine an aggressor or aggressors during any war abroad."

"We believe in the real neutrality of our nation in case of any armed conflict. We are determined to maintain our position by every honorable and legitimate means at our command."

Although Senator Johnson told reporters that "34 senators are united," he did not say which 34.

Three-Year-Old Rides 77 Miles on Fender Of Grandmother's Car

Iron River, Mich. — (P) — A wild 77-mile ride in which he was a "stowaway" between fender and hood of an automobile was just a memory today to 3-year-old Dickie Stebbins, but to his family it was a nightmare that ended happily.

Unnoticed by his grandmother, Mrs. Ray Stebbins, Dickie crawled onto the fender just before she drove away to take Dickie's older brother to the Bewab CCC camp, near Crystal Falls.

Dickie's mother missed him. She suspected he had climbed onto the car, and wired Sheriff Emery King of Iron county. Highway patrolmen missed the car at Amasa, but at the CCC camp Sheriff King caught up with it, after a chase over rough gravel roads through the timberland.

Dickie, still hanging tight, was found safe but whimpered as the sheriff handed him to his astonished grandmother.

Japanese Perplexed Over Long Chinese Resistance as Nation Prays for Souls of War Dead

Tokio — (P) — An undercurrent of pain, perplexity and resignation ran through quiet services with which Japan commemorated today the second anniversary of the war with China.

The traditional moment of silence was observed at noon. Solemn services were conducted at all national shrines and Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako offered prayers at palace shrines for the repose of the souls of the dead.

Premier Baron Kichiro Hiranuma led the entire cabinet to Yasukuni shrine, the "Japanese Arlington," and afterwards relatives of slain soldiers went there quietly for brief devotions. An atmosphere of great solemnity was heavy over the capital.

The attitude of the people was one of "it cannot be helped." It implies resignation. It does not mean approval. Many seek eagerly some sign of peace and finding none, they plod on, trying to forget higher taxes, increased living costs, restrictions on manners and customs, the death of sons, fathers, husbands.

The continued Chinese resistance causes perplexity among the Japanese. Since childhood they have heard their army was invincible. It is explained that Soviet Russia, Great Britain and France are preventing the long-expected Chinese collapse. On all sides you hear: "We are fighting three or four nations. If only the third powers would withdraw their assistance, China would collapse tomorrow."

The day when friends and relatives paraded with the China-

Code Measure Given O. K. of Lower House

Price, Wage or Hour Control Not Included In Bill

VOTE IS 51 TO 36

Sponsors Hopeful Senate Will Replace Regulatory Features

Madison — (P) — The assembly today passed the much amended code bill for service trades and sent it to the senate where sponsors faintly hope to have its teeth replaced.

The house approved the bill, 51 to 36, minus any form of state control over prices, working hours for employees, wages or hours of shop operation.

The measure would apply only to barbers, cleaners and dyers, beauty shops and shoe repairers. Legislators from smaller communities were successful in wiping out all the regulatory features that made codes effective under the former trade practice commission law, which expired last April.

The bill as it stands merely would allow the service trade groups to set up business standards through the department of agriculture and markets. It was the object of a bitter fight in the assembly that extended over three months.

Bills Approved

The house approved and sent to the governor the following senate bills:

Authorizing the secretary of state to sign warrants with a mechanical device.

Permitting local governments to license jewelry auction sales but prohibiting any such auctions before Dec. 1 and 26 of each year.

Repealing the present $3,000 limit on the salary of the director of the state annuity and investment board.

Assembly bills passed and sent to the senate:

Allowing appeals from industrial commission rulings on disputes between municipalities in relief cases to be taken to the local circuit court instead of the Dane county court.

Appropriating $150 to each volunteer firemen's association to conduct fire fighting schools.

Town Pay Provisions

Enabling town mutual insurance companies to insure grain elevators outside their corporate limits up to $10,000.

Allowing towns to pay officers on a salary or per diem basis.

Requiring employers to itemize all deductions from employees' wages.

Prohibiting domestic life insurance company officials from receiving commissions.

Johns Takes Part in Debate in House on U. S. Investments

Washington — (P) — A one-sided debate on investments versus deficits was argued in the house by two Republicans, Representatives Johns of Wisconsin and Rich of Pennsylvania.

Arguing whether a special appropriation should be approved for a New Mexico exposition, Rich said it added to the national debt when the deficit apparently will be $9,600,000,000 this year.

"The interpretation should be changed," interjected Johns. "They are investments now rather than debts. Does not the gentleman understand that?"

"If anybody can see where there is an investment in any deficit, I must say that I fail to see it myself," Rich replied. "I was never brought up in that way."

"I suppose," said Johns, "the gentleman understands the president has said we have reached the point where these deficits are investments?"

"The president of the United States knows nothing about financing," Rich answered. "He is always being in the wrong, and I sometimes think he is punch drunk from his spending."

"But from now on, all the money we borrow is going to be self-liquidating," concluded Johns.

Louisiana Man Is Held On Federal Warrant

New Orleans — (P) — George Caldwell, former construction superintendent at Louisiana State university, was arrested today on a federal warrant charging him with diversion of WPA material and labor to the use of private individuals.

Caldwell, whose resignation was asked and accepted earlier this week, was taken into custody as he left the federal grand jury room here after appearing in response to a summons. The grand jury is investigating charges of improper use of WPA materials and labor at the state university.

Confesses Beating Woman in Hotel Room

Detroit — (P) — Chief of Detectives John A. Hoffman announced today that Stanley Michalski, Detroit structural steel worker, had confessed he beat Mrs. Katherine Weadock Dutton, one-time Saginaw society woman, in a Detroit hotel room last Saturday night. Mrs. Dutton died July 4 from her injuries.

Hoffman quoted Michalski as saying he "got sore and started hitting her" after he discovered some of his money was missing.

Mrs. Dutton was divorced several years ago from Arthur Weadock, prominent Saginaw attorney.

Bricklayer Confesses One 'Torso Murder' but Denies Connection With 11 Others

Cleveland — (P) — Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell quoted a 52-year-old bricklayer as saying today he had killed Mrs. Florence Polillo, 42, one of 12 "torso murder" victims found here since September, 1935. O'Donnell said the man disclaimed any connection with the other 11 slayings.

"Yes, I cut her up," O'Donnell quoted the heavily-muscled, unemployed former WPA worker, who once worked in a slaughter house.

"It took me three trips to dispose of her body. I took her head down to the foot of Forty-ninth street and threw it into the lake. I did not weight it down. The wind carried it out into the lake. Please don't send me to the electric chair."

Tells of "Fight"

The sheriff said the man, held without charge, told county authorities he killed Mrs. Polillo after a fight in his room "the night of the murder."

Parts of Mrs. Polillo's decapitated body were found Jan. 26, 1936, on a rubbish heap and other parts were located two weeks later. She had been dead about two or three days.

O'Donnell said human blood was found on some of four knives located in the man's house, and human blood also had been found on the bathroom wall and a half-inch space between the tub and the wall.

The man lived near Mrs. Polillo. The sheriff described her as a prostitute.

4 More Plants are Included in Strike

Number of Idle Employees In Detroit Grows to 6,000

Detroit — (P) — CIO union tool and die workers spread their strike against General Motors Corporation to four additional plants today bringing the number of idle employees to nearly 6,000.

Walkouts occurred in Plant 37 and the Fleetwood unit of the Fisher Body division and in two units of the Termostet division, all in Detroit.

Wages increases of at least 10 cents an hour and adjustments in working conditions are sought by the strikers, members of the CIO United Automobile Workers. Today's action came as James F. Dewey, federal labor conciliator, pressed efforts to bring General Motors officials and U.A.W.-CIO leaders together to discuss the situation.

Skilled union employees of five G.M. plants had joined the strike prior to today.

Headquarters of the CIO-U.A.W.A. announced that tool and die workers, maintenance and power house employees in the Buick and AC Spark Plug divisions of the corporation were preparing to take strike votes. Buick employees will vote Tuesday and AC employees will vote next Thursday.

Youth Faces Charge of Theft at Marion School

Chicago — (P) — A charge of fraud against Edward Bristol, 19, was continued to Sept. 1 in suburban Evanston court today with the understanding he would be granted probation then or as soon as a theft case against him at Marion, Wis., was disposed of. He was taken to Marion to face a charge of breaking into a school in August, 1938. The Evanston case involved passing a worthless check for $12.50.

Arnold Outlines Anti-Trust Law Enforcement Program to Cut Down Costs of Building

Washington — (P) — Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general, outlined today a program of anti-trust law enforcement by which the justice department hopes to bring down building prices and get "more homes for Americans."

Testifying before the federal monopoly committee, the chief of the anti-trust division said a nationwide investigation now being carried on by the justice department showed that restraints of trade in the housing field were "so prevalent and their aggregate effect so important that the situation is no longer tolerable."

Besides prosecution of law violations on a national scale, Arnold said the department's program envisioned coordinating the activities of the department of justice with other government agencies and with business.

"Trust-busting should not be considered an end in itself," he told the committee. "Legal procedures should be utilized in a reasonable way to get constructive results."

Arnold expressed hope that private capital would be sufficiently encouraged by the department's program to undertake low-cost housing experiments.

Although emphasizing that the department intended simultaneous prosecution of all combinations "creating the log jam in the building industry," Arnold said the program would not be exclusively one of criminal indictment. Civil suits of criminal indictment, he told the committee, would be resorted to in some instances where special considerations might be involved.

Cerebral Hemorrhage Is Fatal at Rapidan Camp

ILL LONG TIME

Governor and Senator Before Becoming Cabinet Member

Washington — (P) — President Roosevelt announced today the death of Claude A. Swanson, secretary of the navy, at the Rapidan camp in Virginia.

Death came at 8:05 a. m. (7:06 a. m., C. S. T.) The navy was advised it resulted from a cerebral hemorrhage yesterday. Swanson had been at the camp more than a month.

Swanson, former governor and senator from Virginia and secretary of the navy since President Roosevelt took office in 1933, was 77 years old. He had been in ill health for many months.

First word of Swanson's death came from the White House when Mr. Roosevelt issued this statement:

Roosevelt Statement

"It is with profound sorrow that I have learned of the death today at the Rapidan camp, Virginia, of the greatly loved Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson."

"In joining with the entire country in mourning him as one whose many years of faithful service to the nation have endeared him to all, his wise counsel and his philosophic understanding of human problems will live after him in the hearts and minds of those who have had the privilege of being his associates."

"He brought to the public service not only ability and integrity but a loyalty to principle and to duty from which no consideration could move him. By his example he has provided an inspiration for all public servants."

"I personally mourn the passing of a steadfast and intimate friend for more than a quarter of a century."

Served in Senate Group

Swanson went from the chairmanship of the senate naval committee to the cabinet.

The Virginian was reported to have been offered the post by Mr. Roosevelt after his senate colleague, Carter Glass, declined another cabinet post, the treasury secretaryship.

Behind the veteran official was 44 years of public service, which began with minor offices in Virginia, several terms in the house, then a term as governor of Virginia, to be followed by the beginning of his senate service in 1910. He served in the senate until named to the cabinet.

Swanson was born at Swansenville, Va., March 31, 1862, the son of a tobacco planter. He was survived by his widow and stepson.

'Big Navy' Advocate

Swanson, throughout all his years as a legislator, was a "big navy" man, although after the World war he curbed his ambitions for the American fleet to the ratio limits of the London treaty.

His constant attitude was for a fleet of the "full strength allowed by the existing law."

He sent the American delegation to the London conference of 1935-1936 under orders that if new treaties were evolved, agreements advantageous to the United States should be brought back.

His interest in American sea power was not limited to fighting ships. In the campaign for the 1928 cruiser bill, Swanson urged the creation of "a merchant marine adequate to handle our foreign commerce," with the assertion that "however strong

Leaders in House Seek Quick Action On Tenancy Program

Washington — (P) — Administration leaders in the house sought today to duplicate speedy senate approval of a $350,000,000 expansion of the federal farm tenancy program.

Chairman Jones (D-Texas) of the house agriculture committee said he would press for enactment of the measure which the senate passed yesterday without a record vote and with scant debate.

Senators Bankhead (D-Ala.) and Lee (D-Okla.), sponsors of the bill, said it merely applied the system of government insurance now operating for home mortgages to farm purchases.

Madison — (P) — L. F. Murphy, supervisor of probation and parole in the board of control, today was named director of education for state penal and correctional institutions.

Move for 1-Man Control Elicits Strong Protests

Administration Bills Receive Little Support At Hearing

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Whatever may be their ultimate fate at the hands of the Republican legislature, the Hill administration's various reorganization bills are taking a severe verbal beating on the way.

It was opponents' day yesterday for proposals to reorganize the banking commission, the tax commission, and the state highway commission, in all of which the administration wants to replace one man management for three. Only one man appeared to speak for the highway commission and banking commission bills. The tax commission reorganization proposal went without a single advocate in the long hearing before the joint finance committee of the legislature.

Most vigorous oratorical drubbing administered was given to the administration's proposition to effect one man control of the state banking department.

Catlin Defends Bill
The author, Assemblyman Mark Catlin of Appleton, assistant house floorleader for the Republicans, was the sole defender of that bill. A banker, dozens of credit union men, and a number of building and loan association representatives prophesied dire consequences for their interests if the bill becomes law.

Catlin, explaining that he has spent almost four months drafting the bill, said it contains the best suggestions of many persons, including a special committee on banking administration and regulation of the American Bankers' association. He said that Wisconsin had an adequate one man banking commission until the early thirties, when more personnel was needed in the banking crisis. He said that one man management was more "desirable and efficient," and also economical—it would save from $6,000 to $10,000 a year.

He was promptly attacked for his ideas, however, by credit union representatives. Raymond Eyrard of Green Bay, appearing for the Wisconsin Paid Fire Fighters association, which has been fighting a bill to attack on the civil service system. It wipes out the present personnel of the banking department entirely.

Fear 1-Man Control
Catlin later denied that he wanted to open up jobs for the administration, said that Eyrard as chairman of the Brown county Progressive organization could be expected to make such an allegation.

Other credit union representatives, asserting that it is their purpose to drive out "usurious money lenders and loan sharks," feared the control of the banking department by a one man commissioner, and the advisory board which would consist of two bankers and a building and loan man.

The credit union demanded a separate division in the department for the protection of their interests, if the bill must pass, but said that they are satisfied to continue under the administration of the present commission, which they described as "friendly."

Most scorching attack came from the building and loan representatives. Carl Taylor, secretary of the Wisconsin Building and Loan League—which he said represents $200,000,000 in assets—warned that members of a competitive field, the bankers, will control the new department under the Catlin bill.

Bitter Competitors
Bankers and building and loan associations are now bitter competitors in the home mortgage business. "Our right to live will be placed completely in the hands of the competitive banking fraternity in this bill," he said.

He also asserted that the duties of the department are too big to be handled efficiently by a single commissioner. "He will spend his working time signing his name to documents," Taylor asserted. He demanded killing of the bill forthwith.

W. T. Dohr, who described himself as a New Richmond banker, and who said to Catlin that "he belongs to your party, the only difference between us is that I have believed longer," also attacked the banking reorganization proposal unreservedly.

He demanded complete study of the commission's work before consideration is given to reshuffling of its makeup. "It will be a serious mistake to pass this bill. You can strike at nothing more vital than at the banks of Wisconsin."

One Supporter
The assembly bill to reorganize the highway commission under a single director, introduced after the administration's failure to pass an identical bill in the senate, drew only one supporter, the Republican county chairman of Marinette county, and dozens of opponents—almost exclusively county highway officials.

W. T. McCaskey of Middle Inlet, Marinette county Republican leader, asked that the bill be supported "because the governor seems to want it. He wants an economical, efficient and honest administration. It is up to us to see that no is properly supported."

Significantly, he added, "The administration of departments should be in the hands of persons in sympathy with him. I'm for the governor, first last and all the time."

"Are you a colonel?" asked Assemblyman Frank Grass of Sturgeon Bay, a Republican.

After laughter subsided, McCaskey replied: "Yes, but not by the grace of God, Heil."

Protest Bill
When county highway committees and commissioners followed one another up to the stand to protest the bill, one of the committee members, Ryno Trego of Merrill, wanted to know if the members of the state highway commission had

Reservations for Legion Camp Must Be Made With Lutz

Edward Lutz, Outagamie county service officer, today advised World war veterans that reservations for a stay at Camp American Legion, Lake Tomahawk, must be made through him. Any World war veteran and his wife are eligible to vacation at the camp at $1 per day. Veterans unable to pay this amount are charged according to their income, Lutz said.

While children are not allowed, cottages may be rented for the family at the camp, Lutz said. Arrangements for cottages are to be made with Captain George Merkel, camp director.

Harry Griswold Services Held at West Salem Today

Johns. Schaefer and Murray Accompany Body of Late Congressman

West Salem —(P)—Funeral services were to be held today for Representative Harry Griswold (R), who died Tuesday at Washington, D. C.

The body was sent from Washington last night. Mrs. Griswold was accompanied by three Wisconsin members of the house funeral committee—Representatives Joshua L. Johns of Algoma, John C. Schaefer of Milwaukee, and Reid F. Murray, Waupaca.

A spray of flowers was sent by house members who adopted a resolution expressing "profound sorrow" at the death of Griswold. The United States senate adopted a similar resolution.

The casket was to be removed to West Salem Presbyterian church immediately after arrival at 2:14 p. m., with the body lying in state from 2:30 to 3 p. m.

After services conducted by the Rev. John B. Fitz, interment was to be made in Hamilton cemetery, near the farm on which Griswold was born and raised, and which he operated at the time of his death.

Honorary pallbearers were United States Senator Alexander F. Wiley of Chippewa Falls, and Representatives Merle Hull of Black River Falls, Charles Hawks, Jr., of Horicon, Frank B. Keefe, of Oshkosh, Schaefer, Johns and Murray.

Active pallbearers included Dr. F. Lynn Gullikson, Griswold's lifelong friend, and chairman of the Republican statutory and voluntary committees. The others were B. A. Mau, Dr. George Evenson, Raymond Knudson, Edgar Hartman and John Meyer, all of West Salem.

Madison —(P)—Lieut. Governor Walter S. Goodland and Speaker Vernon Thompson each named committees of five members today to represent the senate and assembly at funeral services in West Salem for the late Representative Harry Griswold.

They follow:

Senate — Oscar S. Paulson (R), LaCrosse; Edward J. Roethe (R), Fennimore; Maurice P. Coakley (R), Beloit; Michael A. Mack (R), Shiocton.

Red Cross Tells What to Do For Heat Stroke, Prostration

With the annual heat wave descended upon the national scene bringing danger as well as discomfort, the American Red Cross first aid service today warned against mistaking heat stroke for heat prostration and gave timely pointers on the emergency treatment of both hot weather ills.

"Common sense precautions during periods of excessive heat may prevent prostration and heat stroke, and knowing what to do for victims is of prime importance pending the arrival of a physician," Harold F. Enlow, director of first aid and life saving, said.

Because excessive perspiration reduces the essential saline content of the blood stream, an excellent preventive measure during high temperature periods is taking a pinch of salt in a glass of water when thirsty, he said.

"The layman must bear in mind that heat stroke and heat prostration, though caused by similar weather conditions, require different treatment," Enlow stated.

Treatments
The Red Cross listed the cause, symptoms and emergency treatment for both:

Heat stroke is caused by exposure to heat, particularly the sun's rays. Heat prostration is caused by exposure to the sun's rays or indoor heat.

Heat stroke symptoms are headache, red face, skin hot and dry, no sweating, pulse strong and rapid, temperature very high, victim usually unconscious.

Heat prostration symptoms are pale face, skin moist and cool with profuse perspiration, pulse weak, temperature low, victim often faints but seldom remains unconscious for more than a few minutes.

For heat stroke, the patient should be placed in a supine position with head elevated, his body should be cooled with a bath or by placing the body in a sheet and pouring on tap water. No stimulants should be given.

Heat prostration treatment consists of placing the patient supine with head level or low, applying external heat if needed and giving stimulants and salt.

Obtain Judgment For 21-2 Millions

Hornel Company Given Court Order Against Former Officer

Austin, Minn. —(P)—The George A. Hornel and Company yesterday obtained a two and a half million dollar district court judgment against Ransom J. (Cy) Thomson, now a $30 a month farmhand, who embezzled a million and a quarter dollars from the packing company while an officer of the firm.

The judgment was the largest in the history of Nowata county. It was issued by Judge N. E. Peterson in the exact sum of $2,574,178.39. It is a renewal of an older judgment of $1,658,925.32. Interest since 1930 boosted the total.

Firm officials said they had little hopes of collecting. They told the court they believed Thomson may have secreted some of the money he confessed taking while serving as comptroller of finance for the concern, and they wanted to keep the judgment alive for that reason.

Since he was released from prison, Thomson has been getting $30 a month and room and board as a farm hand.

Thomson, described here as a "miracle man" for his sudden rise from a $12 a week boy who started with the firm in 1906 when he was 15 years old, served eight and a half years in Stillwater prison before he was paroled on March 23, 1930.

Milwaukee —(P)—Carl R. Becker, assistant United States attorney, today filed in federal court a suit to collect for the United States farm credit administration on a loan made to a farmer. It was one of the first actions of the kind ever started in the eastern Wisconsin federal district.

The suit asks judgment against O. E. Pitts of Nashville for $261,000, covering principal and interest on a loan executed four years ago.

Townsend Won't Risk Beating for His Pension Plan

Asks It Be Withheld from Consideration During Senate Debate

Washington —(P)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend has made it known he does not want to risk another congressional beating for his old age pension program at this session.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), a Townsend plan advocate, made public today a letter from the pension leader which asked that the program be withheld from consideration during senate debate on proposed changes in the social security act.

Townsend wrote that an adverse vote on his plan undoubtedly would "intensify our so-called 'defeat' in the house, which voted overwhelmingly recently against the plan for pensions up to $200 a month.

The letter suggested it would be better to let the program "go by default" and concentrate on approval of an amendment to the constitution which would let congress levy taxes for the specific purpose of paying old age pensions.

The senate finance committee late yesterday recommended acceptance of house-approved amendments broadening the social security act. Senate debate will start Monday.

The committee suggested only minor changes in the house bill. It recommended exemption of fishermen, newsboys and commission insurance agents from the security act and increased from $8,000,000 to $12,000,000 the amount the government may contribute for state public health programs.

A house provision that state unemployment insurance taxes should not be less than 2.7 per cent of payrolls was stricken. The committee retained house proposals to freeze old age insurance taxes on employers and employees at 1 per cent each for the next three years and to increase from $15 to $20 the maximum federal contribution to state old age assistance programs.

A proposal by Senator Byrnes (D-S. C.) to give a larger proportionate share of old age assistance grants to states with less-than-average per capita income was rejected, 13 to 6.

bound recruit to the station amid the sounds of brass bands and crimson flags is gone. Now enthusiasm is forced and excitement has given place to weariness. The scenes at the station have become old and meaningless.

Or station scenes of another kind. There is a heavy silence on the kind platform and soldiers stand at rigid attention. Behind them are masses of people watching a train come to a stop. One by one soldiers emerge from the cars. Each carries a white box, containing the ashes of a Japanese soldier killed in China.

The soldiers with the white boxes line up before the troops and crowd. Each company of soldiers is small. The war office says the total death list is less than 60,000. (Neutral experts believe it is much higher.)

Relatives who long ago went to cheer the departing hero now get his ashes in a white box. Only once, it is believed, did the delivery of ashes produce a scene—only once did the rigidly controlled emotion burst out.

A widow, accompanied by her other children, came to take the box that bore the name of her eldest son. When his name was called she stepped forward. The officer bowed, saluted and handed it to her. She held it in her arms for a moment as though it were an infant. Then her mouth opened in a soundless scream and she threw the box at the officer's head.

Endeavor Society Would Restrict Bombing by Planes

Cleveland —(P)—Restriction of bombing to fields of actual fighting and immunity of food ships from blockades "might end the worst of war barbarities—the starving and killing of women and children."

This was the prescription to lessen causes of war and promote peace Herbert Hoover left today with the peace-loving international society of Christian Endeavor.

Hoover, who learned about war suffering as chairman of the commission for relief in Belgium during the World war, suggested last night at opening sessions of the society's 37th convention that nations willing agree:

"That vessels carrying only food supplies be placed upon the same basis of immunity as hospital ships—freeing them from blockade and attack by warships or submarines; That there be no bombing of civilian populations, and no bombing anywhere except in the field of actual fighting men on land or sea, and at works devoted strictly to munitions.

"Nations who are not willing to enter such obligations will have declared their shameful devotion to barbarism," Hoover said.

Voluntary Union of Danzig With Reich Not as Simple Solution as It May Sound

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York—And so what happens if the Danzig parliament declares the free city annexed to the German reich, and there is no intervention by Berlin?

Would that deprive Poland and her Anglo-French protectors of any grounds for action against Germany and so remove the present war-threat?

England, France and Poland are wrestling with this startling problem now, and it isn't easy of solution.

At first glance this scheme seems as naive as a school-girl's blush and so free from complications as to provide a neat exit for the grave difficulty. Actually, however, it is as fraught with trouble as a bound dog full of porcupine quills—about on the same basis as direct annexation of the free city by Germany.

Would Be Revolt
Danzig is, as its name implies, a sovereign state. But—its constitution is guaranteed by the League of Nations and the city cannot legally change its status without permission of the league. A change of status without permission would constitute revolt, under the league set-up.

Thus any desire by Danzig for union with Germany must, according to the league, be referred to the league. Then we should get this mess:

The leading members of the league are France and England, who avow themselves prepared to oppose German annexation of Danzig even to the point of war. Germany, on her part, doesn't recognize the jurisdiction of the league, but threw that organization over long ago. So did Germany's ally, Italy.

When Danzig was taken from Germany after the war and set up as a free city under the treaty of Versailles, it was explained by the allies that "the basic idea is that the free city shall form a community in the international organization of Europe, which is kept so much as possible protected against any undue bias from any particular country and has a settled existence by itself; full regard, of course, being always paid to the provisions of the treaty of Versailles.

Guarantee Independence
The league guaranteed Danzig's territorial integrity and political independence against external aggression in the same way as was guaranteed to all members. Without the league's agreement no individual power could interfere in the affairs of Danzig.

"The provision that the constitution shall be placed under the guarantee of the league means that the League of Nations shall not tolerate actual transgressions against the existing order of things within the free city."

Danzig's self-government was restricted by a rather sweeping treaty with Poland, also provided by the treaty of Versailles. Those who have wondered what Poland's specific interests are in Danzig might get a fair answer from the clauses of the Danzig treaty.

Under this treaty the free city was included within the Polish customs frontiers. Poland was insured free use of all waterways, docks, etc., within the territory of the free city, necessary for Polish imports and exports. The Poles were insured the right to develop and improve the waterways, docks, etc.

Controls Railway
Moreover, Poland was insured the control and administration of the great Vistula river and the whole railway system within the city. Poland also got control and administration of postal, telegraphic and telephonic communications between Poland and the port of Danzig.

A highly important stipulation was that the Polish government should undertake the conduct of the foreign relations of the free city, as well as the diplomatic protection of citizens of that city when abroad.

Another vital restriction placed on the activities of the free city by the league set-up provided that "Danzig cannot be used as a military base, cannot set up fortifications, and cannot allow the manufacture of munitions and implements of war on its territory, except with the express consent of the league."

Thus far Poland, France and England have avoided throwing any part of the Danzig problem into the lap of the league of nations, which has been keeping very quiet in the marble palace on the bank of Lake Geneva.

Appleton Pilots Buy New Airliner

Monoplane Will be Used For Passenger Flights In State, Michigan

Elwyn West, Outagamie county airport manager, and Donald E. Nicolas, 314 E. Lincoln avenue, have purchased a 12-passenger, Stinson, Detroit airplane to be used for passenger flights in Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

The big monoplane was available for rides over the Fourth of July weekend at the airport and will be in Clintonville Saturday and Sunday. West said the plane will tour Wisconsin and Upper Michigan during the summer and will be brought back to Appleton in the fall.

The airliner is powered by three 225-horsepower motors and has a wing-spread of more than 70 feet. West said it is equipped with radio navigation lights, landing lights, safety flares and other safety devices. The plane will fly on any two of its three motors, another safety feature, and will attain a speed of 120 miles per hour.

Auto Industry Is Still in Trouble Despite Labor Act

Rival Union Factions Causing Strife, Stoppage of Production

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Again the automobile industry may furnish the reason for a significant change in the regulation of labor relations in America. Back in 1937, it was a sit-down strike which is believed to have persuaded the supreme court to uphold the Wagner act and give congress the power to prevent paralyzing stoppage of production.

Today the federal government, entrusted with power to regulate labor relations, is confronted with the fact that although collective bargaining has been granted by the employer, although contracts have been signed with those who profess to have a majority, there is strife and controversy and stoppage of production.

Whose responsibility is it? Clearly not the employer's. Clearly also, each of the two rival unions has a legal right to call a strike and fight the other while the employer with billions of capital invested, the employees with millions of dollars of weekly pay roll and the public with countless businesses and related industries affected must pay the penalty.

Purpose of Act
The purpose of the Wagner act was to prevent labor disputes by giving workers the right to collective bargaining. Senator Wagner visualized a labor board that would be active in preventing strikes. The law which he sponsored gives the board the right on its own initiative to call an election and determine who is the proper bargaining agent. Belatedly the board has begun an investigation, but has not ordered any election. Yet for several weeks the situation has been brewing between the rival factions and nothing has been done by the board to certify just which union the employer should deal with as the representative of the majority or the minority, as the case may be.

The purpose of the framers of the law was to give the board discretion so that, of its own motion, it could order an election. This power has never been exercised unless the initiative came from the employee. The employer is expected to be given some rights now to petition for an election, but this is to come through a change in the rules and can be subtracted overnight by another change in the rules.

It is no reflection on the board that it has failed to order elections on its own motion. It fears becoming involved in the dispute as a partisan of one union or the other and hence stays out altogether. If the Wagner law were amended to make it mandatory on the labor board to call elections the moment there is a dispute as to the bargaining agent, no criticism could be directed against the board for doing what it would be commanded to do by law.

Weather Elements
The argument against granting this power to call elections is that one side or the other isn't ready. Yet, even if that be the case and the weaker side loses, as is inevitable, there is nothing to prevent the weaker elements from getting members in the remaining months of the year and then, in the subsequent election, turning the tables.

No elections can guarantee a status beyond a year anyway if the workers, who usually operate on yearly contracts, wish to change their bargaining agents. It may be difficult to dislodge the "party in power," but under a democratic system it can be done. To entrench one side or the other and make it difficult for a free election to be called which shall express the untrammelled wishes of the workers is not to advance the cause of unionization, but to embody a system of dictatorship in which a few individuals maintain themselves in power as officers and the rank and file has little to say.

To safeguard future elections conducted by the labor board and to require them to be held periodically means a simple amendment to the Wagner law. To require also that there be no stoppage of work pending the conduct and supervision of the election by the labor board is also a provision that could readily be included.

Limitations on the strike idea have been embodied recently in state laws without effect because they are merely short time limits, but when related to a definite means of finding out who is the proper bargaining agent, they would find more public support.

A Post-Crescent photographer, padding his forehead with his handkerchief in yesterday's heat, wondered just how the temperatures outdoors compared with that to which some Appleton people work each day. So he set out to find out.

In the top picture are two men unloading bread from the oven of a bakery. It's about 105 degrees where they work—which is 11 degrees higher than yesterday afternoon's outdoor reading. The men are Fay Grunert, 222 N. Union street, and Harold A. Christen, 913 W. Spring street.

At the right is a fellow who goes about his daily task, summer or winter, in temperatures that range from 12 to 15 below zero. His name is Henry Hoesly, 425 E. Brewster street, and he's been in the ice cream business for 21 years. Says he's used to abrupt temperature changes, but just the same, he has to climb into an extra layer of clothes before walking into the refrigerated room. In the picture, he's carrying out two containers of ice cream. (Post-Crescent photo)

Newspaper, Film and Radio Men Get Awards for Work

Atlantic City, N. J.—(AP)—Twelve newspaper men, photographers, newsreel men and radio newscasters will be awarded gold plaques by the National Headliners' club here July 15 for outstanding work in their respective fields during the last year.

Arthur Robb, editor of Editor and Publisher magazine and chairman of the club's committee on awards, said Frank L. Robb said Troughill won the award with his reporting of the "murder-for-insurance" ring's activities in Philadelphia.

The award for "the best exclusive news reporting in the foreign field" was given to Reynolds Packard of the United Press for his work during the Czechoslovakian crisis last September.

The medal for "the best news picture" was awarded to Howard Jones, formerly of the Knoxville Journal, for a picture taken while his subject, a politician, fired a revolver at him.

Damon Runyon was given an award for his "consistently outstanding work as a writer of feature stories," and Heywood Brown for "the consistently high literary quality of his column."

The New York Journal-American also will receive a plaque for having enacted by the New York legislature a new lunacy law.

A posthumous award will be given to the late Merlen E. Pew for "his distinguished service to the American newspaper profession." Pew was editor of Editor and Publisher for 13 years.

Paid $25 Fine for Wrong Party; Wants County to Repay Him

A case of mistaken identity about a year ago cost R. M. Murphy, rural route, West DePere, $31.60 in a fine and costs, and today he began action to reclaim the sum from the county.

A trucker by the name of Walter Hillsberg a year ago was found guilty of driving with insufficient lights to a municipal court. Another man by the same name was employed by Murphy and when informed of the case, Murphy paid the $25 fine.

Later he found that his employee was not the party in the action. In the meantime the fine was turned over to the county treasurer. Murphy now plans to enter a claim against the county for the amount.

Rain Measures Over Inch

The rainfall measured 1.37 of an inch, the Wisconsin Michigan Power company reported. Another shower, brief but heavy, hit the city mid-morning today and more are forecast for this evening and tomorrow.

Last night's dense rain filled catch basins to overflowing and wetted many a housewife's curtains. It flung branches off trees in the city, caused consternation among yachtsmen who were caught on Lake Winnebago, and blew a tree across Highway 76 north of Greenville.

At 12:30 this afternoon the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent registered 65 degrees. The lowest reading during the 24-hour period ended at 9 o'clock this morning was 67, according to the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

At Waupaca, farmers reported considerable damage to crops from the high wind and rain storm. Several barns were damaged near Marion and Readfield.

Lightning started two house fires and splintered trees and telephone poles during a heavy rainstorm at Kenosha today, the Associated Press reported.

Both basins were extinguished by the fire department.

Lightning struck a large maple tree on Fifth avenue and flying fragments of wood broke windows in four nearby residences. A portion of the trunk, about eight feet long, crashed through the front door of one of the homes.

One of the fires started when lightning struck a telephone pole, part of which caught fire and fell on the roof of a residence. The other started when lightning struck a chimney.

Three Deaths in State

Deaths of three Wisconsin men yesterday were attributed to the heat, according to the Associated Press.

George Kowalski, 54, of Milwaukee, collapsed while at work in a factory, and died several hours later in a hospital. The coroner termed it a heat prostration.

George Sutton, 72, shopping in a grocery store at Beloit, where it was 97, suffered a heart attack induced by the heat and was dead when a physician arrived.

Cornelius Turner, 57, Milwaukee, a janitor, was prostrated by the heat this morning while mopping floors. He was dead on entrance at County Emergency hospital.

Seve Sabotich, Sheboygan, suffered shock and head injury when lightning struck a dwelling at Niagara last night. Lightning burned out electrical equipment in a score of home and business establishments at Niagara.

Thundershowers rolled eastward across some of the middle west today, bearing relief from a hot spell that has taken at least 13 lives.

J. R. Lloyd, government forecaster at Chicago, reported showers cooled scorched sections of Iowa, Minnesota and eastern Dakotas and that they would reach the Great Lakes area late tonight or tomorrow.

Southwesterners continued to swelter, however, although it was cooler in the northwest. It was slightly cooler in Kansas, where most points reported readings above

Lappen said he served Klitzke personally while the papers on Rohan, who is in Madison, were served on a member of his family.

Klitzke, who operates a farm on W. Wisconsin avenue, has been selling milk at 25 cents per gallon. Rohan, who lives at a farm on the outskirts of Kaukauna, has been selling milk for 5 cents a quart.

In addition to the milk price violation, both men are charged by the department with selling unsanitary raw milk and with doing business without a license.

The department is asking injunctions against continuance of violations of the state law. Klitzke and Rohan have 20 days in which to file answers.

WPA Workers are Returning to Jobs In Some Regions

kosh retail merchants, notably grocers, had a meeting in which they decided that no credit would be extended to WPA workers on strike. Marceau shouted that the same problem would exist in Neenah and Menasha.

Just as the sentiment was voiced that these concerns withholding credit should be mobbed, Mayor George F. Oaks, Oshkosh, walked on the scene and calmed the group with an appeal to the workers to return to projects because there was nothing that could be done further after the protest was lodged in Washington.

The mayor then asked the workmen to appear at the Oshkosh city hall for the secret ballot in the evening. This being agreeable to the group, the mass-meeting was disbanded.

A two-day protest strike, called by 300 workers at a mass meeting last night, began at Madison this morning. Delegations visited all projects, hoping to persuade enough workers to quit to force a complete shutdown. Workers' Alliance officials said they expected 500 to 600 persons to join the strike, which they said was called for the purpose of dramatizing their protest against the new regulations.

Rice Lake Strike

Approximately 200 went on strike at Rice Lake.

A total of 135 skilled and unskilled workers returned to their jobs on three Wisconsin Rapids sewerage projects today after a two-day holiday. Their action followed a mass meeting yesterday.

The full crew of 22, who were off the job part of Wednesday, went back to work at Nekeosa.

Twenty-five men again were working on a Marshfield sewerage job, but 46 others remained at home.

Approximately 330 WPA workers engaged on city projects at Eau Claire remained idle today with the exception of one crew of about 20 men which resumed work on a curb and gutter project.

The WPA office at Eau Claire reported that crews remained at work on two projects at Augusta, one at Fall Creek and at several road projects at scattered points elsewhere in the county.

Yachting Party Is Rescued After Rain Disables Boat Motor

What began as a quiet cruise on Lake Winnebago in search of a cool breeze turned out to be a harrowing adventure for Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Gilbert, 532 Nicolet boulevard, Menasha, and a group of their friends, who went out for a boat ride last night in the Gilberts' cruiser, Spindrift.

The driving rain which came suddenly at about 8:30 wet and disabled the motor, leaving the boat stranded in the stormy lake. Distress signals were sent out.

At his cottage on Lake Winnebago, Harold Frank, 112 W. Tobacco street, Kaukauna, saw the signals at about 9:30, apparently some 5 miles away, and with his brother, Orville, set off in an outboard motor boat to give assistance.

When they arrived at the scene, the Gilberts asked them to call a rescue boat from Neenah. They did, and at about 1 o'clock Fred J. Solomon, 629 Elm street, Neenah, boat attendant for S. F. Shattuck, Neenah, went out in a surf boat, formerly used as a coast guard cutter, to get the stranded party. They arrived on shore about 3 o'clock this morning.

Biplane Damaged When It Hits Hay Stack in Takeoff

A 3-passenger biplane, owned by the Outagamie County Airport, was damaged late Thursday afternoon when Charles Herrmann, 543 N. Durkee street, attempted to take off and collided with a haystack near the runway.

Herrmann, a student pilot with a private license, said he was taxiing to the runway and didn't see the stack until it was too late to avoid hitting it. The propeller was broken and the left wing was damaged slightly.

With Herrmann in the plane were Dudley Chafee and Peggy McDonald, both of Chicago. No one was injured.

Schedule Hearing on Change in Zoning Law

A public hearing on a change in the zoning designation of a lot on Lawrence street near Superior street, will be held at 7:30 Wednesday evening, July 19, in city hall. The applicant wants the lot changed from the residential to the local business district.

SCHEDULE MEETING The relief committee of the city council will meet this afternoon in city hall to discuss various relief problems. Alderman Keller is chairman.

THOUSANDS IDLE New York—(AP)—Thousands of WPA workers throughout the country idled today in protest against extension of laboring hours, while others continued on the job or were reported preparing to return to work in the face of what one labor leader termed a "fight to the finish" to force congressional reconsideration of the new federal relief act.

George Meany, president of the New York State Federation of Labor, conferred with Mayor LaGuardia and indicated that the strike of an estimated 25,000 WPA workers in New York city would continue.

Both Meany and Thomas A. Murray, president of the Building Trades Council, representing 125 American Federation of Labor building unions in the city, pressed hopes, however, that the conference would "lead to something."

In Rhode Island, State Administrator Farrell D. Coyle said the strike had ended with return to work of about 50 carpenters and bricklayers in Providence and the promise of 275 workers on a sewer project in Cranston to come back to their jobs.

Set Total At 100,000 In Harrison county, Miss., where 1,100 workers walked out, Martin Porter, Mississippi state administrator, said he expected an early end to the strike.

Unofficial estimates by A. F. of L. officials here put the country total of WPA workers idle at 100,000.

In Cleveland, Frank T. Miskell, district WPA director, estimated 5,000 skilled and unskilled workers were out, while union officials fixed the number at between 10,000 and 15,000.

WPA officials in New Jersey estimated 1,467 skilled workers stayed away from their projects today, while in Massachusetts 166 were reported idle.

In Rochester, N. Y., Robert G. Hoffman, WPA director for the area, ordered the dismissal of 50 workers who left their jobs during working hours. Hoffman estimated 800 of 3,500 employed on various projects walked out.

Plan Conference

Chicago reported no concerted strike movement as yet. Union officials were to meet WPA employment heads today to discuss the situation.

Several hundred striking WPA workers picketed Scott field, an army post near Belleville, Ill., and urged workers to join them. About 750 did, but another 100 remained on the job.

Striking WPA workers in Milwaukee were to meet there today. The Milwaukee building trades council meanwhile telegraphed Senator Robert LaFollette urging enactment of a separate law or amendment which would nullify the WPA work hours provision.

In Pennsylvania the Workers' Alliance, the union of WPA workers, relief recipients and unemployed, called for statewide strikes to protest the new 130-hour work month.

ing any compensation other than that regularly fixed for their posts. The assembly killed the Biemiller bill allotting $3,000 for a legislative interim committee to study the cost of medical care and make recommendations to the next legislature. It also disapproved a senate bill exempting all gasoline used for agricultural purposes from the state gasoline tax.

Bills Turned Down

The senate killed bills: Licensing and regulating cemetery memorial dealers and salesmen by a state board.

Enabling the conservation commission to hold hearings to determine if certain navigable waters constitute game fishing grounds, and if so determined, requiring the public service commission not to permit more than a foot and a half variation between high and low water levels.

A joint resolution memorializing congress to limit the broad authority vested in the president to enter into foreign trade agreements was adopted by the senate, and one requesting the conservation commission to place the opening date of hunting, fishing or trapping seasons on Saturday and Sunday was killed.

Reject Measure

The assembly turned down a senate measure today which would have authorized the governor and the department of agriculture and markets to purchase approximately 60 acres to enlarge state fair park. The vote was 55 to 25.

The bill was introduced by Senator Young (D) Milwaukee. The land was estimated at about $60,000.

By a voice vote the house approved a senate bill authorizing the city of Kenosha to build and maintain jetties in Lake Michigan for shore protection. It was introduced by Senator Shearer (R) Kenosha. It now goes to Governor Heil.

The assembly killed bills: Prohibiting employers from discriminating against job applicants or employees between 40 and 65 years because of age.

Providing taxes of a 1 cent a gallon on diesel and fuel oil and 5 cents a 1,000 cubic feet on natural gas brought into the state through pipelines.

This Is the Story of Minnie The Mink, An Unusual Animal

BY DON ANDERSON
When you can get a mink that's not in a cage to pose for her picture, you've got something. Minks are supposed to be quite timid and furtive about things. That is, most minks. Not Minnie.

Minnie is different, somehow. Ask the boys who work at the job of sluicing wood into the Interlake Pulp and Paper company. They've known Minnie for nearly two years now, they figure. She seems to be getting friendlier all the time.

Of course, Minnie gets the best treatment from such fellows as John Woods, Ed Liesch, Nick Massonette, and Rudy Kuntzman. These men, and others who work with them at the channel on the south side of the paper mill, see to it that the graceful lady mink has everything she needs in the way of suitable menus. And Minnie, in turn, repays their thoughtfulness by occasionally breaking up the routine of their work with cute capers over the log booms and entertaining physical feats, such as dragging 4-pound carp along the board walk lining the channel to her hangout.

Why Minnie is so little abashed in the presence of humans the wood sluicing gang doesn't know. There are three minks down that way, at least three adults and just lately somebody reported sighting a brood of six young ones. But only Minnie makes regular public appearances.

She and her relatives can count themselves lucky. They have life a lot easier than most of their kind.

She Is Served Fish
When an ordinary mink wants a fish for dinner, he has to go out and catch it. Not Minnie. She has fresh fish every day, served up by her men friends. The fish—bullheads, carp, etc.—are placed in a basket on one of the walks across the channel.

Come meal time and Minnie slips out of her haven under a mass of timbers, romps along the boards, deftly lifts a fish out of the basket, and heads back for home.

But her public appearances are not all of a practical nature. She likes to play outdoors. Now and then she will wander around the channel, climbing in and out of the water, skipping along logs, even accepting pieces of bread from the men. "Why she wasn't more than a foot away from one of the fellows the other day," Woods will tell you.

The men use just a hook and line in providing her fish. "You should see our fishing equipment," Woods says. "We use old limbs for poles, but we get results. All she needs" Minnie has plenty of foresight and knows how to save, according to the story told by her friends yesterday. They reported that last winter she stored about 75 fish, mostly sheephead, under the bridge so that on sharply cold days she and her colony could stay inside and have plenty to eat.

When a photographer came down the other day to take her picture, he didn't have to wait long. Minnie knows that when she's called, it's to her advantage to come and she usually does. After all, why turn down the suggestions of the best friends a mink ever had?

Foresters to Have Joint Picnic July 16 At Heesakker's Grove

After the business meeting cards were played and prizes at schafskopf were awarded Mrs. Otto Jerny and Mrs. Theodore Van Lankvelt. The prize at rummy was won by Mrs. Marie Coppus. Twenty-five members were present at the meeting.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Doyle returned Wednesday to their home in Ashland after a several day's visit here with relatives.

I call my wife my C.P.A.— Certified Purchasing Agent!

I never saw anybody who can stretch a dollar the way she does! Everything she buys is a good value—and she never seems to get stuck with things that look good, but fall apart the first time they're used.

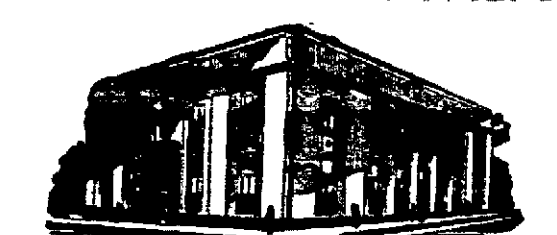

I told her one day that she'd make the Purchasing Agent of any business look sick. She was pleased when she saw I meant it.

"It's perfectly simple," she said. "I watch the advertisements the same way a stock broker watches the ticker tape. They keep me informed on 'good buys'—and save me a lot of shopping around, as well."

Sounds simple, doesn't it? But I can tell you it's saved this family a lot of money!

TIMING IN POLITICS AND THE RING

This was a startled country 47 years ago when Gentleman Jim Corbett laid John L. Sullivan low. Our people just knew that Sullivan couldn't be whipped.

The explanation was a matter of timing. And timing is a word that but illy covers the beautiful and marvelous coordination that takes place between muscle and eye, brain and nerve, when the human mechanism works in that fashion we call perfection. "If Sullivan could only hit him" gasped the champ's despairing friends at the ringside as they observed the strong man reeling before his younger opponent, an opponent whose timing was perfect where Sullivan's was far from it. But the champ couldn't get in one of his deadly blows because age in some unaccountable and undiscoverable manner makes timing clumsy.

So in the pugilistic profession the fact must be faced that a man with a blow like a sledgehammer can accomplish little unless his timing functions to deliver the blow when guards are lowered, the opponent off balance or a vulnerable spot is open.

We have something of the same sort in politics. We must have timing of measures. He who depends upon spending to gain his ends must have the process reach its zenith at the right time or all is lost.

Mr. Roosevelt, the most "polished politician" of a century, is aiming all his expenditures at next summer and fall. He has devoted much attention to the matter of timing. Without it the expenditures will have little political value.

Next June will be an important month but not as important as November. June's importance will lie in the fact that the national conventions will convene before its span is out. If the President's timing works to perfection some of the flush of the billions we are still wearily wasting may come to the surface in June. It will help the delegations carry the banners. It will fortify the clackers to scream in the heat. A political party likes to get off to a good start. And the gong sounds in June.

But if Mr. Roosevelt's timing is such that he is as tired as old Sullivan in the ring 47 years ago and cannot swing a right to the jaw nor a left upper cut into the pit of the stomach the election will be lost.

The next election actually may depend upon that question of timing, a delicate matter and one that involves a countless number of factors.

It may be of interest to those who hope Mr. Roosevelt runs into the disaster of a Waterloo to remember that General Lee declared that Stonewall Jackson's greatest value to the Confederacy was in this very matter of timing. Stonewall, another man with Old Testament eyes, figured on getting there "fustest with the mostest men" to use an expression credited to one of his cavalry subalterns. And the story of the South was one of victory until Stonewall so far failed of his record and standard that he was actually shot by his own men.

For even excellent timers, it appears, cannot always go on timing to perfection.

A TALE OF TWO NOTICES

The Treasury Department sent out two sorts of notices in respect to certain monies due the government June 15.

One read as follows:
"Excellency: I am requested by the Secretary of the Treasury to transmit to you the attached statement showing the amounts due and payable on June 15, 1939, to June 15, 1939, inclusive, from your government pursuant to the terms of the Debt Agreement of June 19, 1932, and the Monetary Agreement of June 4, 1932."

"In presenting this notice of amounts due under the agreement signed by your government, I take the occasion to reiterate that this government is fully disposed to discuss, through diplomatic channels, any proposals which your government may desire to put forward in regard to the payment of this indebtedness, and to assure you that such proposals would receive careful consideration with a view to eventual submission to the American Congress."

The other notice was in this language: "Statement of income tax due for calendar year."

Demand is now made for the installment due on the date shown hereon.

This installment must be paid on or before June 15. (See Reverse side.)

Important Notice: The payment required by this notice MUST be in the Collector's Office before MIDNIGHT

OF JUNE 15. If mailed this installment payment should be placed in the mails in ample time to reach the collector's office before MIDNIGHT OF JUNE 15. Failure to have payment in the Collector's Office before such time will cause interest to accrue at 6 per cent per annum and the full amount of the unpaid tax will become due immediately, the taxpayer thereby losing the privilege of making further installment payments.

The responses of those who received the first notice were polished and courtly. The defaulting government expressed appreciation to our government and begged to assure it that "whenever circumstances such as to warrant the hope that a satisfactory result might be reached" developed negotiations would be duly opened.

But the response of those who received the second notice were curt and cold. They merely directed certain banks to pay to the Collector of Internal Revenue of certain districts specified amounts of money. The habits and practices of diplomacy were lacking. And the defaults were lacking too.

Polished manners, after all, may be rather cheap.

A COP WHO COULD AMEND A LAW

Walter G. Storms of Chicago is a cop. But he is the sort of outspoken and intelligent man that would be serving the public better were he occupying the position of mayor of his city or governor of his state.

At Chicago a little while ago they had a police lineup where detectives and others were looking at one Henneman, who calls himself the head of the painters' union.

Speaking editorially about the situation the Chicago Daily News gives this history of the man on view:

"Henneman was last in the news when Dungan, former business agent of the union, was felled by a fusillade of bullets as he left Henneman's home last summer. Before that the name of Henneman was made familiar to headline scanners when, in 1936, assassins fired at him through the window of his automobile and killed his wife. In all six killings have been attributed by police to the war in the painters' union."

Now, it may be interesting to read the statement of cop Storms to fellow officers and others at the police lineup:

"I'll tell you what this fellow's locked up for. He was found with an automatic pistol in his pocket. In his car were found a revolver, a blackjack, a pair of rubber gloves and a roll of adhesive tape. It's the fault of society that such men are leaders of unions. If a law could be enacted providing that all officials of unions must work for at least five years at the trade of their union before assuming office, hoodlums would be driven out. These hoodlum unions have come into office surrounded by bodyguards. They rule by the gun, and for one purpose only—money. They barter and exchange unions for money."

But Walter Storms is no politician. He is no seer after votes. He is not willing to wink an eye at crime as vicious as murder or extortion as damnable as a continuous racket, just for his own advancement.

Henneman is not an unknown variety in Chicago or any other big city. Every paroled criminal who finds the going in his particular line getting pretty rough, habitually casts his eye upon the kidnapping of some labor union, the taking over of its treasury, the sale of its rights, and the subsequent living in alleged luxury with a few fast moving dames in an atmosphere of alcohol.

Of course we could pass a law prohibiting the selection of any official, agent or representative in a labor union from the convict class. But that would be interfering with the Wagner law and the Wagner law is the great "charter of liberty" or at least you will hear it so baptized at every election.

And in a sense it is a charter of liberty—for Henneman and his fellow thugs.

AFTER READING YOUR LETTERS

I do not know the poses that endear you. To those who cherish you and linger near you. I do not know the color of your eyes. The timber of your laughter and the wise Soft quality of speech that you employ. Whether you walk with Sorrow or with joy.

I think of you and yet I cannot place you. There is no frame in which I may encase you. I do not know the city where you dwell. I have not strolled down lanes that love you well.

I never saw your lamp shine on a street. Where you and I, though friends, may never meet.

You are a sheaf of letters that I treasure. And read again with ever-mounting pleasure. You are the echo of all friendships blown Upon the wind since that sweet bond was known.

More real to me, more lovely with surprise Than if I clasped your hands and met your eyes.

FAILURE TO TESTIFY

Looking back upon the trial of former Assemblyman Edward S. Moran, Jr., in which he was convicted of taking bribes, it seems certain that the jury must have been unfavorably impressed—just as the public—by the defendant's failure to testify.

In an average trial few circumstances could point more suspiciously toward guilt than the rejection of a chance by the accused to tell his story and vindicate himself as far as his knowledge permitted. But where the defendant does not accept his chance neither prosecutor nor court may comment upon the fact. They may analyze the evidence, placing as much weight as they choose on circumstantial evidence, but if the defendant's failure to testify is considered it must be upon the jury's own initiative. This rule is not universal, however. In England the judge may comment. In several states of this country both judge and prosecutor may

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—Brooklyn never really gets a fair break. Anything horrible happens, it is always in Brooklyn, but it is something praiseworthy, then it happens in "New York," because Brooklyn is in New York.

Brooklyn has as much to be proud of as any other New York borough. It has been the starting place of many famous names which, as soon as they got famous, shook the Brooklyn background and preferred to be known as Broadway folk.

Coney Island, which is in Brooklyn, has been the cradle of much talent. Jimmy Durante, old Schmozzola himself was a nobody pounding a piano in a modest rowdy-dowdy Coney spot before he even dreamed of being Big Stuff on the stage and screen. One of the first singing waiters of whom nobody ever had heard, the singing waiter was Eddie Cantor.

Vincent Lopez was another Coney Island product, playing in a Boardwalk spot for cakes and coffee and the coins that big hearted customers tossed him. He used his way. Pat Rooney, an immortal of vaudeville, played his first night club date in a Sheepshead Bay dimmy—and that's Brooklyn. At Keeney's in Brooklyn an amateur contest was held years ago. The winners were a brother-and-sister team billed as Lou and Fanny Brice; and look at her now. Henry Youngman, one of today's glibest masters of ceremony, started cracking jokes in night places in the Bay Ridge section of the City of Churches. Brooklynites still talk about the crazy antics of the Howard Brothers who now are Curly and Shemp of that wild comedy act, the Three Stooges.

The first swimming race Eleanor Holm ever won was at Erasmus Hall High School, Brooklyn, where Art Jarrett, whom she later married and still later lost in the divorce courts, was a member of the school glee club. Pandro Berman, producer of the Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers pictures, was a Brooklyn school boy—and couldn't dance a step. There was a hat check boy in the Shelbourne hotel on the Coney Island waterfront who was known as Connelly, that checking. He grew up to be Mae Connelly, producer of "Green Pastures." Mae West first had the idea for someone to "come up and see me sometime" in the Ridgewood section of Brooklyn, and Clara Bow didn't develop any "It" until after she had left Bay Ridge High School.

Brooklyn probably plays to more amusement seekers in the course of a year than Broadway, for the city has such summer spots as Coney Island and Manhattan Beach, which attract crowds by the hundreds of thousands. Her Prospect Park is only slightly less famous than Manhattan's Central Park, and her hotels and theatres hold their heads just as high as any on the boastful little island in whose shadow she lies. It is largely a city of homes, and of course its reputation for churches is well known.

It will be interesting to see what effect, if any, the World's Fair has on the attendance at the Goldman band concerts in Central Park this summer. The concerts have become an institution not only at Central Park, Manhattan, but in Prospect Park, Brooklyn, as well. The series opens July 9, which is the anniversary of the birth of Daniel Guggenheim, whose endowment makes the concerts possible.

Special memorial concerts will be held during this, the 22nd season. The opening concert will be a memorial to Mr. Guggenheim. Victor Herbert will be commemorated August 18, and a program in memory of John Philip Sousa will be played August 27.

Mayor LaGuardia has made a pet of these band concerts. He attends them frequently, and occasionally takes over the baton from Edwin Franko Goldman.

Ran into Emile, the hairdresser, in Rockefeller Center, and chided him on being hatless. "Tis bad," I said, "for the hair." "You," said Emile, "are a fine one to be telling me what is good for the hair." One thing led to another, and he delivered himself of these comments, which I thought you might like to hear:

Salt water swimming is more injurious to the skin than fresh water.

Blondes last only half as long in summer sun as brunettes.

It is O.K. for men to omit hats in the summer, provided they put some goo on their hair to counteract wind and Sol.

And girls shouldn't dab themselves with perfume before taking sunbaths, on account of the sun's rays and the perfume chemicals get together and leave brown spots.

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO
Friday, July 10, 1914

As the Ringling Brothers circus parade passed Pettibone's, one of the elephants sucked a small pool of muddy water into its trunk and sprayed it over the crowd. The parade that morning was three miles long and attracted thousands of people.

All bids on the water tower were rejected by the city council that morning and new estimates were to be sought.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Belling and Mr. and Mrs. George Steidl took a fishing trip to Winneconne the previous day. They made the trip by car.

Joseph Albert, Edward Berry, Louis Schneider and Miss Alice Sofia of New London were visiting friends in Appleton that day.

J. T. Nemacheck, who the previous day drove from Eagle River to Appleton in 10 hours in his new automobile, said a 31-pound muskie had jumped from the water onto a low dock at Eagle River and was bagged by two boys.

10 YEARS AGO

Friday, July 5, 1929

Irving Wright was elected president of the Neenah Eagle Amusement association. Others elected were Henry Torsrud, vice president; William Korolev, secretary and treasurer; William Campbell, Daniel Nielsen and Henry Schultz, trustees for one year.

The Fourth of July holiday death toll was 159, 46 less than in 1928. Automobile accidents, however, were responsible for 70 deaths, 54 more than in 1928.

A broken thumb was the only injury sustained by Edward Bruson, Appleton aviator, when the ship he was piloting about 8 o'clock Thursday morning struck a high tension wire as he was making a forced landing at Wausaukee and crashed to the ground.

do so. Ever since the governor's conference on crime in 1935, and even before, a proposal to change New York's rule of evidence has been before the public here, and the legislature has turned it down.

In the absence of such permission, which appears to many students as altogether a fair and reasonable re-enforcement of the prosecution, it is reassuring that many juries seem regularly to draw the logical inference from regularity of cases may be found where the defendant sought to protect himself behind a wall of silence but was convicted, anyhow. It was so in the "Jimmy" Hines case. It was so in one of the most famous of all New York's murder trials—the Lieutenant Becker case.

A law to permit comment on a defendant's failure to testify, we believe, is inevitable in the future. Lacking it now, it is worth while to comment upon the Moran case and others of the same sort in the past, as a general suggestion to jurors hereafter.—New York World-Telegram.

A Bystander In Washington

BY FRESTON GROVER

Washington—Baiting a trap with many kinds of bait will get many kinds of game, and that is the policy followed by the silver senators to gain enough support for silver money legislation.

Grover

Every bit of silver legislation that has passed in the recent half dozen years has been accompanied by other monetary or economic legislation to attract votes.

If this sounds cunning and calculating and a bit unethical, remember that nearly every major piece of legislation is a compromise of views. In the Senate and in the House there are several groups advocating different ways of manipulating the currency to bring about economic improvements. The silver group happens to be the best organized and it starts the wheels that pull support from the other groups.

That is exactly what was done in 1933 and again in the exciting days at the end of June this year when the Senate seemed to be kicking mighty high over the traces to vote for an increased price for silver and withdrawal of the President's power to devalue the dollar.

In the Senate there never have been more than 12 to 15 senators in the "silver bloc." Acting alone they could not have secured a dime's worth of silver legislation. But when silver is up they hang together like a battalion of death. Key figures in the group are Senators Adams of Colorado, King and Thomas of Utah, Pittman and McCarran of Nevada and Thomas of Oklahoma. They can count on certain other silver state senators and an occasional outsider such as Bankhead of Alabama.

Strength Requires Strategy
To get the other votes they need takes strategy. The 1933 silver legislation furnished the best example. What was done in the past few days was simply an operation of the 1933 plan.

In 1933 the air was ablaze with plans for recovery. Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, whose state, incidentally, doesn't mine a pint of silver, had the idea for gathering enough votes for a silver remonetization. He knew there were certain senators, such as Nye of North Dakota, who favored issuing plain greenbacks. So he drafted a bill, authorizing the President to issue $3,000,000,000 worth. Others wished to do the expansion through the Federal Reserve, so Thomas included that.

Still others, like Connally of Texas, wanted to cut the gold value of the dollar. So that was included. As for silver, the bill gave the President authority to buy silver and monetize it at any ratio to gold he chose. Other votes were corralled by a provision permitting foreign nations to pay up to $200,000,000 of war debts in silver.

Enough senators wanted all or part of that bill to insure its passage. For a time some New Deal figures were frightened, but President Roosevelt saw the value to his administration of the authority to issue currency and devalue the gold dollar. He has never cheered for the silver end of it but he took it all of a piece.

Influenced by the same forces, the administration agreed to let Senator Pittman negotiate a silver treaty with 66 nations in 1933 designed to increase the value and use of silver money. Under that treaty and the authority contained in the 1933 Thomas bill, the Treasury began buying silver.

But the Treasury bought only U. S. silver, at 64 1/2 cents an ounce. For silver money men that was not enough. They wanted the U. S. to lead the world in establishing silver on a higher money plane. To avert another union of inflationists with silver people in 1934, a bill was agreed upon calling for purchase of foreign silver. Under it the price of silver once climbed to 81 cents, then sagged to 43 cents.

This June, silver men feared the Treasury was going to let the price for U. S. silver sag from 64 1/2 to the world price of 43. No go, said they. Again they needed outside support. Many senators, mostly Republicans, had authority to devalue the dollar further. So the two teamed up, and soon the silver men had scored another victory—at least for the moment.

Two Slightly Injured When Truck Crashes Into Pole at Manawa

Manawa—Marlin Steibs and Russell Handrich, both of this place, were badly shaken up and bruised when the truck driven by the latter and owned by Walter Handrich, got out of control after crossing the tracks at the Manawa depot and careened off into an electric light pole Tuesday afternoon.

The pair was driving north towards Manawa on Highway 22 and according to eye witnesses, the vehicle swerved off to the right after passing the intersection and struck the pole sideways.

The pole was shattered, although remaining upright, and three transformers were stripped from their bases, one of them narrowly missing the cab of the truck on its downward flight. The transformer weighs about 300 pounds.

Steibs suffered a bruised shoulder and arm while Handrich was hurt about the face, arms and hands. The truck was considerably damaged and the rack practically demolished.

The pole and transformers, owned by the Wisconsin Power and Light company, were replaced Wednesday. Damage to the transformers could not be accurately estimated until they are completely checked. Conservation estimates, however, place the damages, including the truck, at $1,000.

John Seffern, manager of the plant here, stated that the pole struck was one of the most complicated to repair in the village because of the number of wires and the transformers.

THE SWIMMIN' HOLE MONOPOLY.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

Coney Island has provided an extra quarter of a mile adjoining the old time part where the bathers sat jowl to jowl, but this week's bathers ignored it completely and stuck with the mobs. It puzzles some people, but they just don't understand the psychology that guides the American bathing beach addicts. They'd rather stay home than be caught on a beach where there's lots of room.

If most bathers, especially the big type, knew of a beach where they could lie down without having their head in somebody's box-lunch, their feet in a stranger's lap and their elbows pinned under another stranger's beach-chair, they would avoid it like poison. All day long the police and life guards kept telling the sweltering, battered bathers that there was plenty of room on the new stretch of beach, but all they got for their pains was the answer "you can't make me go over there. I'm a free American citizen and I got a constitutional right to be uncomfortable."

That new beach won't be a success until a way is found to congest it. The new authorities may have to use decoys to get the old timers to go near it.

Getting down to something more important, however, did you read where the nazis are clinching their hold on the international record for uncivilized conduct by beating a cardinal on his way to confirm children? They spat at Archbishop Innitzer, knocked his hat off and otherwise behaved as you can't imagine normal people behaving.

Well, ex-Kaiser Bill was pretty fair at offending world opinion, but Hitler has him looking like a rank amateur.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

PRIME OF LIFE
As a doctor of preventive medicine, it is regrettable to record, one can't eke out a living without poaching on the proper province of the honest doctor, that is, the general practitioner, known in the era of the tandem bike as the family physician—to say nothing of the territories claimed by various specialists who, of course, get theirs by luring customers from the inarticulate general practitioner and from each other.

Still I did imagine in my illud way that one could comb the country, so to speak, via the press, and find enough clients to support an exclusive practice in preventive medicine. But, shucks it will take a hundred years of education to teach any considerable portion of the population that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Gullible greeds and wide acres abound in this country and it is a simple matter to sell them all sorts of freak pills, gadgets, manipulations or diets that purport to cure whatever they think ails them. If your wares do not purport to cure anything or at least to bring prompt relief, you are licked before you start. You may either make way for a charlatan with a line or else take on a few nostrums that will interest the sucker.

Why, when I began preaching the practice of somersaulting most readers smiled and inferred that I did not imply openly that I was more than half crazy. For years I and a couple of other nuts rolled virtually alone. Finally it occurred to me, as I enjoyed my rolls before breakfast one morning (I don't guarantee any old stiff neck will get new ideas by simply turning somersaults but a good many somersaulters have assured me it helps them solve problems), that people who suffered from false dignity held aloof because I hadn't suggested forcibly enough that somersaults would be good for what ailed them. So I began listing the complaints that daily somersaulting might overcome—sallow complexion, "biliousness," so-called the blues, insomnia, liver spots, or what have you—and immediately everybody sent forty, it seemed, began rolling.

I reckon it is human nature, at least cumb human nature, to laugh at doctors and their advice, even doctors of preventive medicine, as long as you are in fair health, and to go your own way at your own pace until you're down and out or in grave danger of being shelved, and then you begin shopping around. It's a great life if you ever get anywhere that way. Please let me know if you do. I am always interested in unique cases.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
V I T E Spells Youth

In one article you referred to a booklet about Vite and Youth. I'd like to have a copy of it if it is available. (Mrs E. W. W.)

Answer—Send ten cent coin and stamped envelope bearing your address. It is No. 17 in the Little Lells series titled "VITE Spells Youth." Deals with juvenile anemia, caemxia Americana, extension of prime of life, the growing child's weaknesses, posture and health, etc.

Pimples and Blackheads
I am fifteen and for over a year my face has been covered with blackheads and little boils and my skin is so oily. (Miss C. H.)

Answer—Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for monograph on oily skin, pimples, blackheads (acne).

Flesh of My Flesh
Is it actually true or false that a child is flesh of the mother's flesh and blood of her blood? (G. L. H.)

Answer—True. All of the child's nutrition, oxygen comes from the blood of the mother, up to the moment of birth.

Nearsightedness
Kindly state whether vitamin A is of any help for a child ten years old who has what the eye doctor calls myopia or nearsight. (F. C. P.)

Answer—There is no convincing evidence that it would be. Numerous oculists have obtained what they regard as superior results in the treatment of various eye conditions when the patient receives a liberal ration of vitamin A daily—say two or three capsules a day, each capsule containing 25,000 units. Some oculists believe dropping a drop or two of 1:1000 adrenalin solution in each eye daily for years arrests progress of progressive myopia in childhood. This is harmless at any rate, provided the solution does not become contaminated and spoil—too old a solution may irritate the eye.

Diathermy of Tonsils
Had diathermy of tonsils by Dr. throat fine for four years. Then had sore throat. Family doctor says should have tonsils cut out—says diathermy will never be successful. (H. O. K.)

Answer—If they were my tonsils I'd return to the diathermy man for whatever further treatment he thinks necessary. I'd give any doctor a wide berth if he seemed to me to secure that diathermy can never be successful, for that is as sensible as it would be to say that one of these crazy ten ton airships can never rise into the air.

Save the Wrapper
Last summer my vacation was ruined, in fact I was laid up for almost a week, by painful sunburn. This year I'll be more careful. What suggestion can you offer, against the risk of burn at the beach? (Miss H. T.)

Answer—Pages and pages on the subject, along with practical instructions for management of most common skin troubles and preparation of useful cosmetics, in booklet "Save Your Skin"—for copy send twenty-five cents coin and stamped envelope bearing your address.

Arthritis
I am 37 years old. Will you kindly tell me what I can do for multiple rheumatoid arthritis. (S. L.)

Answer—That's an imposing way of saying you have inflammation of more than one joint. It is a nice way for the doctor to avoid saying, "I haven't the least notion what ails you." If your doctor can make no diagnosis of your condition there on the spot, it is not likely that one far away can divine what the nature of the trouble may be—even if he were a good doctor. But if you come to a sensible dime, send it along with a stamped envelope bearing your address for copy of booklet "The Ills Called Rheumatism," which may at any rate suggest a sensible course for you to follow. But please understand clearly, there is no definite disease which may be designated rheumatism or rheumatoid or anything like that. Arthritis is joint inflammation, whatever its nature or cause.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed unless inquired by general interest will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady 265 El Camino, South, Beverly Hills, Calif.

New London Will Clash With Bays In Evening Tilt

Bulldogs to End First Half Of Season in Northern Loop Sunday

New London—Unless things go wrong, the New London Bulldogs are planning to mop up the Green Bay Green Sox in the last game of the first half season in the Northern State league in a night tilt under the lights here Sunday night.

Having won six out of the last seven games after losing the first six straight, the Bulldogs are combining the best hitting of the league with head-up baseball as testified by the 12 to 7 trouncing they gave the champion Truckers last Sunday night.

Fans showed they will support a good New London team when they taxed the seating capacity of the ball park Sunday night. Extra benches will be provided at the Green Bay game to assure seats for all.

Marlyn Munsch, last year's favorite young pitcher, will take the mound for New London for his home performance this year. He will be backed by the same successful combination that has produced a winning team. Either Schuster or Johnson, both former pitchers with the Milwaukee Brewers, is expected to hurl for the Sox.

WPA Project Resumed Under New Schedule

New London—A full crew of 60 WPA workers returned to work on the shelter house at Hatten Recreation park Thursday morning to begin a new work period under a new wage-set up. Under the new schedule set up by the WPA, single men working at the park will work 130 hours per month instead of the former 100 for the same pay, according to F. A. Jennings, park superintendent. Men are being laid off the project in accordance with a state-wide reduction of the WPA payroll.

Tennis Singles Meet Reaches Final Round

New London—Senior boys' tennis singles practice tournament will go into the final rounds at Hatten park Sunday. # Grafters Set Example for Louisiana State Students

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York — Whatever else may be said of the educational standards of Louisiana State university, it cannot be denied that that section of American youth which had the privilege of attending school there has been given a thorough course in political extortion, embezzlement and crude methods of graft, and from the absence of any protest audible beyond the campus limits, it may be assumed that youth, as represented by the student body of L. S. U., studied these practical devices not with the pious abhorrence due sin but with the avidity of restless and inspired adolescents eager to go and do likewise.

Huey Long built big, and his successors have extended the physical development of the school which he called "my university," just as he called the coffee-colored Mississippi flowing past Baton Rouge "my river." And it is said that in the matter of routine book learning the university has a very respectable rating. But all this time the students have been exposed to the example of elders and direct superiors, both in the state capitol and in the university itself, who made corruption attractive by mocking the very name of decency and flaunting the wages of vice.

Pegler

In all the time since Huey took over the school just one feeble yip of protest has been heard from among the thousands of students who saw graft legalized and even ennobled and the courts and other arms of government reduced to the level of rackets. In this case a handful of amateurs in the journalism branch were expelled for printing a protest in the school paper against one of Huey's less flagrant excesses and were deserted by their fellow students in the face of Huey's threat to expel a thousand of the little illegitimates, as he called them in a shorter and uglier word, if they dared dispute his will. He put in a censor at the newspaper plant, and the remaining students closed ranks and went on as before, but committed, now that the issue had been raised and disposed of, to the rule of a dictator and to passive toleration of any villainy done in his name by any member of his machine in the university.

Students Sold Out For Football Trips

He bought them out with band music, football trips and, it must be added, the opportunity to receive an education, but an education corrupted by daily observation of political conduct which sneered at their citizenship. They learned politics by intimate study of the art in a state capitol that was a house of political prostitution and by unavoidable, casual contacts with abandoned men holding seats in the legislature and jobs in the mysterious mazes of the state machine.

Some of these men wore an outward appearance which was likely to make sin rather attractive to penniless country youth at the university, for the machine included many prosperous individuals who held college degrees, talked well and persuasively and wore not the faded denim of the down-trodden claylayer in whose name they ran the state but store clothes from the city.

Example Of Elders Bad For Students

It is not a wonder that youth fell at L.S.U., but with youth speaking up so bright and bold on public matters just now it is to be wondered what morals and principles this particular group of American youth will bring to bear on public life and private citizenship. They learned everything having to do with politics in an institution which in its revelations of practical politics and the duties of public officers

Fair at Seymour From Aug. 17 to 20

Daredevil Drivers and Stunt Men to Appear On Program

Seymour — The Seymour fair will be held Aug. 17 to 20 inclusive with the 18th as entry day and the program on the last three days.

One of these days will be known as thrill day when Flash Williams, thrill driver and stunt man, now completing a picture in Hollywood in many hair-raising episodes, will be the featured attraction with his 15 thrill drivers and daredevils. Williams and his crew will appear here with automobiles, motorcycles and eutomont.

In his T-Bone crash, Williams places a car diagonally across the racetrack in front of the grandstand about fifteen feet from a 24-foot ramp. Racing the car around the runaway or track, he levels off for the straightaway. When he strikes the ramp, the car leaps into the air and crashes into the parked cars.

In between some of the more spectacular events, his men take over. The climax of thrill day is the stunt performed by Williams when he drives a car into a burning building erected by local carpenters. The ruins miss him by inches as they topple.

Beverage and Gas Tax Revenues are Higher This Year

Total Collections of Division for Six Months
Total $2,669,388

Waterloo—Beverage and gasoline tax revenues for the first six months of 1939 showed an increase over the income for the corresponding six months in 1938. John M. Smith, state treasurer, said yesterday in discussing treasury department revenues before a group of tavernkeepers.

"The total revenues of the beverage tax division from Jan. 1 to July 1 of this year were $2,669,388 as compared with $2,650,799.02 for the corresponding period of 1938," Smith said. "From Jan. 1 to July 1 of this year, liquor revenues were $1,539,273.62 as compared with $1,535,312.25 for the same period in 1938; beer revenue during the period in 1939 was $1,038,589.70 as compared with $1,038,189.91 for the same period in 1938; wine revenue for this period in 1939 was $47,103.33 as compared with $32,666.96 for 1938; license fees during the same period in 1939 were $46,420 as compared with $54,700 in 1938. The total increase in beverage tax revenue from January 1 to July 1 over the corresponding period for 1938 was $18,589.63."

"For the first six months of the present year," Smith pointed out, "gasoline tax revenues showed an increase of $315,735.93 over the first six months of 1938. During the first half of 1939, the total gasoline tax collections were $3,504,118 as compared with $3,988,362 for the first six months of 1938."

"The month of June 1939 was memorable for the fact that more revenue was collected by the gasoline tax division than for any previous June in the history of the department. The total for June, 1939, was $2,162,769.04 as compared with $1,902,650.68 for June, 1938."

Smith also pointed out that expenses in the oil inspection department were greatly decreased during the fiscal year and that when the books were closed for this period approximately $20,000 were returned by the oil inspection department to the general fund.

Cubs Defeat Yanks

Kimberly—The Cubs defeated the Yanks by a five-point margin in a question bee at a safety program at the clubhouse Thursday noon. The winners had 875 points while the Yanks had 970 points.

Members of the Cubs were H. Foresters of the planning department and C. Monette of the finishing room, each 250 points; B. Willis of the finishing room, 275 points; and E. Derks of the millwrights, 200 points. E. Versteegen and J. Stuyvenberg boosted the score for the Yanks, each with 300 points.

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood—All the current fuss and fanfare about Charles Laughton's return to Hollywood makes the sad case of Peter Lorre just that much more ironic. Why Hollywood should break its neck to bring back the one, and, at the same time, go blissfully on ignoring the other, is beyond me. Laughton, of course, is a fine actor, but Lorre, well, great as he is, Laughton can't be rated too much above the man who gave such amazing performances in "M," "Crime and Punishment" and "The Man Who Knew Too Much."

The way he's been kicked about from pillar to post by Twentieth Century-Fox, overlooked whenever a great role suiting his particular type was to be awarded, and finally shunted aside into a nonsensical series of "Mr. Moto" quickies, is criminal. Moreover, it's the final proof positive, if such proof was needed, that Hollywood either does not recognize great talent, or doesn't give a hang about it.

In simple fairness, the powers-that-be at Twentieth ought to give Peter Lorre a decent break. He was signed by that studio with the assurance that he would be given fine acting roles—that he would be an important star. He didn't want to play those Mr. Moto parts, which he could have been excused for considering an insult to his ability. He played them simply because he's such a non-temperamental, obliging person that he refused to fight.

He's done his part—how about giving him a deserved reward?

Tavernkeepers Seek Right to Sell Liquor in Broken Packages

Waupaca—Eight tavernkeepers were present at the meeting of the city council Wednesday evening to present personally their appeal that they be allowed to sell liquor in bottles and broken packages. At the opening of the session a unanimous report of the special license committee was read, recommending that the petition be denied. Then open discussion followed, with Attorney Kyle Anderson speaking for the tavernkeepers. Liquor merchants in the city are taxed annually $350, he stated, adding that this license fee is one of the highest in fourteen counties. In Stevens Point where the license is $300 the privilege of selling by bottle is given; Clintonville, New London, and Menasha licenses cost only $100, $150, and $125, respectively, though the two latter do not allow liquor to be sold by bottle. Mr. Anderson said, maintaining that to pay this high tax, tavernkeepers need this additional source of revenue.

It was conceded that, since bottled liquor can be bought outside the city limits at any time, the petition should be reconsidered. The question will be taken up again at the next meeting.

City pay rolls and relief bills were read and approved. Mayor Erickson appointed Richard Behnas dog-catcher. Alderman Weatherby reported that steps were being taken to remove the worst cause of radio interference which has been affecting police radios and all receiving sets within a six-mile radius.

Paltzer Herd Is Highest Producer Of Fat in Month

Holstein Cows Show Average of 51.9 Pounds of Butterfat

Robert Paltzer's Holstein herd took production honors in the Outagamie County Dairy Herd Improvement association, No. 5, last month with an average of 51.9 pounds of butterfat. High individual honor was taken by a cow in the Alfred Techlin herd with 100.2 pounds of butterfat for the period.

The next four high places in individual production were taken by cows in the Paul Kroes herd. The records were 83.5, 82.9, 72.4 and 72.2 pounds of butterfat.

Second place in herd production was won by the Kroes herd with an average of 47.3 pounds of butterfat. The Alfred Techlin herd took third place with an average of 45.8 pounds. Fourth was the Maurice Power herd with 40.1 pounds, and fifth the William Krause herd with 39.3 pounds.

Following are owners and number of cows producing 40 or more pounds of butterfat for the period: John Van Asten 4, John Coenen 5, Paul Kroes 12, Chester Appleton 1, William Carney 10, Clem Vandenberg 4, Mike Mack 5, A. # Proper Preparation Important In Making State Fair Exhibits Proper preparation of exhibits for the state fair is important to remember if the farmer is to get awards, according to J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent.

Grain exhibits are judged from the standpoint of their value as seed. To prepare a creditable sample, the farmer must be thoroughly familiar with what constitutes good seed, and must study his grain carefully to determine how to make the most out of it. It is well to start with at least twice as much grain as is required for the sample as hand picking and extra cleaning will reduce the amount, Magnus points out.

"Freedom from weed seeds is important as seed grain containing them is considered inferior," Magnus states. "The presence of damaged, musty or smutty kernels indicates low germination power and vitality. The best seed grain is free from mixture with other kinds or varieties of grain. Foreign kernels should be removed.

"Uniformity in size and shape of kernels, and good size and weight of kernels are desirable. This is best obtained by special care in cleaning with the fanning mill. The weight can be increased by partly filling a burlap sack with grain and rubbing or tramping to rub off beards, tips and chaff, and then removing the light material with the fanning mill. This treatment should not be overdone for if the tips of oats or barley are rubbed off so that the grain is exposed this will count against the sample in judging.

Pure Samples

"For clovers, alfalfa it is well to go through part of the field at blossoming time and remove all weeds and other foreign plants. This will aid in securing a pure sample. Alfalfa seed should be well ripened before harvesting. Putting the seed through one set of small mesh screens to take out the small seeds and then through a set of larger mesh to remove the extra large ones will give a sample of very uniform size.

"Take care in threshing not to remove the hulls from timothy seeds, as hulled seeds are discriminated against and are difficult to remove. The fanning mill will remove light seeds and chaffy material.

"Cracked and broken beans, soybeans and peas can be largely avoided by careful threshing. Secure bright, plump seed, uniform in size and color, and pick out broken and off-colored seeds. Inspect samples for mixture of varieties. Mixture occurs often in soybeans and peas.

"Harvest Sudan grass when the seed is thoroughly ripe and store under cover. After threshing, treatment with the fanning mill will give a good sample of plump seed."

Use Measurements To Grade Cattle

Method, Devised by Government Expert, Gives Index to Carcass Quality

Two simple body measurements of beef cattle, plus a record of feed consumed by it in reaching a certain weight, give a good picture of qualities transmitted by the sire. The measurements are height at withers and weight or heart girth, according to a crop reporting service bulletin received by J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent.

The measurements give the index to carcass quality and the feed record tells how efficiently the animal puts on weight. Together they make a record-of-performance test by which beef herd sires may be "proved." The herd owner knows whether or not the offspring of a "proved" sire are likely to make efficient gains and yield carcasses of good quality.

The greatest drawback for such testing has been the lack of a simple method for determining carcass grades of test animals before slaughter. Only trained cattle graders could do the job.

The 2-measurements method, which makes it possible for the farmer to do his own grading on the farm, was devised by Bradford Knapp, Jr., animal husbandman of the United States Department of Agriculture, after studying weights, measurements, and grades of 167 slaughter steers, including Herefords, Shorthorns, Aberdeen-Angus and steers of a dairy breeding. The grade or score as determined by the two measurements for the most part tallied with the grade given the same animals by two competent graders.

As an example of how the slaughter grade is arrived at by height at withers and weight: an animal 45 inches in height at the withers must weigh 1,010 pounds or more to grade Prime, 875 to 1,009 pounds to grade Choice, 755 to 872 pounds for Good, 652 to 754 pounds for Medium. All below 651 pounds grade Plain.

USE AUTOGIRO

London (AP)—The air ministry has ordered seven autogiro aircraft for experimental flying in the belief they may be useful in districts where landing and take-off space is restricted.

The new machines may be flown off an area little bigger than a tennis court and can "jump" vertically between 12 and 15 feet. They can be landed in a correspondingly small space.

'Hopper Plague Is Diminishing

County Agent Urges Use Of Poison Bait to Fight Pests

To prevent damage by grasshoppers to the second crop of alfalfa, poison bait should be spread wherever small grasshoppers are hatching in any quantity, J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agent, advised farmers today.

The county has set up a poison mixing station at Apple Creek and bait will be furnished free to farmers who will spread it to protect their crops.

Because of rains, crop losses from grasshoppers in northern Wisconsin will not be nearly so serious as anticipated, according to E. L. Chambers, acting chief of the state plant industry division.

While it is necessary to continue control activities in many of the counties located in lighter soil areas, it now appears that no widespread damage will occur before the small grains are harvested. Chambers points out that if July and August are hot, dry months, it will result in serious grasshopper losses to second crop hay, corn, tobacco, clover and alfalfa seed crops as well as to cranberry bogs and truck gardens.

Farmers are urged to apply the poison bait to hay and small grain fields as soon as these crops have

Finds Governor Lost Right to Veto Bill

Madison (AP)—Attorney General John E. Martin informed the senate clerk Thursday that Governor Heil forfeited his right to veto a bill authorizing the state office building commission to supervise operation of the new state office building here.

The bill was passed by the legislature and sent to the governor May 28. On June 2, the sixth day following its passage, the governor was absent cut, where the "hoppers" are present in large numbers, to eliminate risk of later losses. A few pounds of poison bait applied now in the limited areas found infested will be effective.

Roosevelt Will Seek Third Term, Rotarians Told

Philadelphia Newspaperman Predicts F.D.R. Will be Nominated

Neenah—Predicting that Roosevelt will seek and obtain the Democratic nomination for president of the United States in 1940, C. William Duncan, interviewer for the Philadelphia Ledger, told Neenah and Menasha Rotarians and Rotary Ann at a joint dinner last night at Riverview Country club that whether the president will win the office for a third term depends on whom the opposition puts up against him.

Duncan who claims that his weakness is making political predictions, stated that he bases his views on his knowledge of Roosevelt gained through several interviews. He further stated that the radio will be the weapon in Roosevelt's campaign as the president says that the newspapers do not give him a break.

Considering a possible candidate for the Republican nomination, the interviewer mentioned Senator Vandenberg of Michigan and Tom Dewey of New York and stated that if Vandenberg had the color of Dewey, or Dewey had the training and experience of Vandenberg, there would be the ideal candidate. He expressed the opinion that Vandenberg is the stronger of the two because of his background and experience in politics. Duncan dismissed talk of Ohio with the comment that one feels a letdown in personality after meeting this man who is the son of a former president and chief justice of the supreme court.

Relates Experience
Duncan, who has spent 12 1/2 of his 19 years in newspaper work as an interviewer, told his listeners of some of the 3,500 persons he has met and written about from Hollywood personalities whom he said were for the most part unhappy, to three figures from whom he received actual inspiration in life.

Wisconsin's football coach, Harry Stuhldreher, was mentioned as one of the latter. He eats, sleeps and breathes football, Duncan said, and he will give Wisconsin, if not a championship team, a fighting team. Dr. William Lyon Phelps, literary figure, who at the age of 70 told the interviewer that only with age does one get the real view and perspective of humanity, and Knute Rockne, late football coach at Notre Dame, were the other two mentioned in this group. Rockne, the speaker said, stressed fundamentals and team work not only in football but in every walk of life.

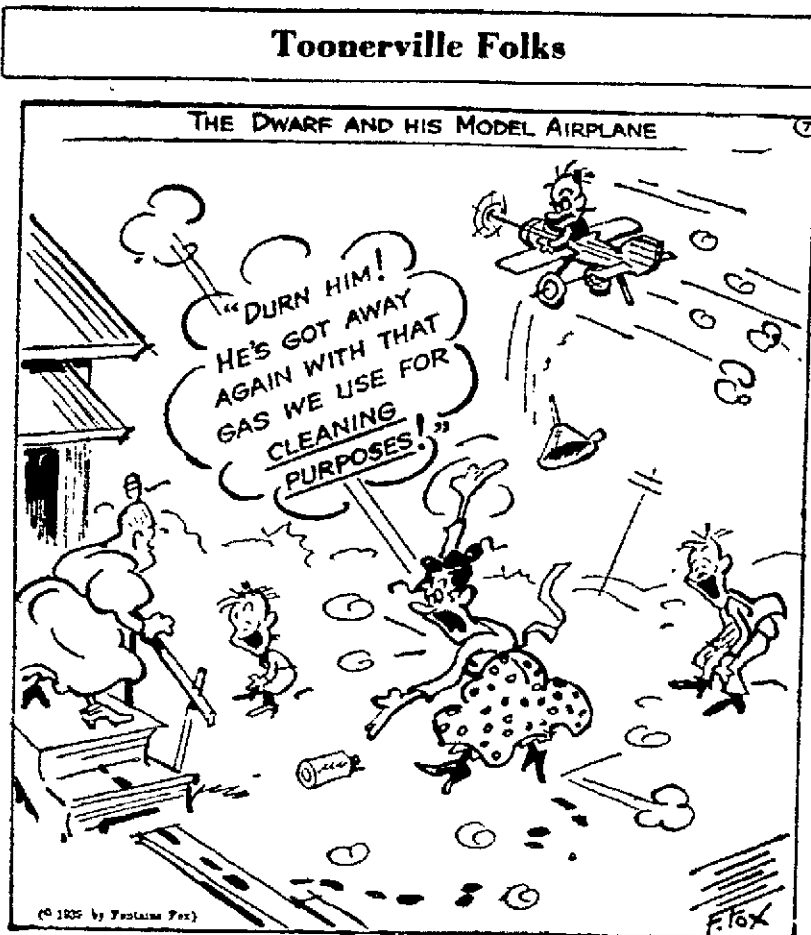

Wiley Post world flyer, was presented by Duncan as a man with no idea of showmanship who had to be told when to wave at the crowd as he rode about the city in promotion and who wanted above all else a good night's sleep, but a man with a keen sense of humor. He spoke of Huey Long, the Kingfish from Louisiana, of whom he said, "Even dead they can't keep him out of the news," who gathered followers by making promises.

Praises Borah
William F. Borah was characterized as Duncan's "favorite" in the United States senate because his mind stands out like the Empire State building on the New York skyline, who can work with no given group any length of time, who pulls against the majority for what he thinks is right. The speaker told of meeting Schuyler Barker, who was still drawing huge crowds on one of her last concert tours, not by the power and beauty of her voice, for the years had made great inroads there, but by the sheer magnetism of her personality, and of interviewing Ruth Bryan Owen, nearly 8 feet tall, who wanted to establish herself as a distinct personality, not as the daughter of William Jennings Bryan and who said, "It is a distinct liability to be the son or daughter of a great man."

Helen Hayes, so different from the person one sees on the screen, on stage, Miriam Hopkins and Ed Wynn who are about their own come times; Joe E. Brown and Harold Lloyd who are not at all funny off the screen; Zasu Pitts who would like to be a Marie Dressler; the late Lilyan Tashman who claimed that men are even bigger "suckers" in real life than they are portrayed on the screen—these were some of the Hollywood personalities touched on by Duncan in his brief sketches.

Switching over to politics the interviewer made his Roosevelt third term prediction and discussed John Nance Garner whom he said was a decided contrast to Roosevelt. Five feet eight inches tall, with snow white hair, eyebrows and lashes, Garner was characterized as the gruffest man of the 3,500 persons Duncan has interviewed. When Duncan walked into Garner's office one day and asked him if he was going to be a candidate in a few months, the vice president replied in his Texas twang, "My wife doesn't know that, my secretary outside there doesn't know it, so why the hell should I tell you, a man I never saw before."

Checks Crime
J. Edgar Hoover has done more to check crime in the United States than any other man, the speaker stated in a short sketch of the No.

Brownie Pack 1 Is Busy Group Of Girls During the Summer

Menasha—While their "big sisters," the Girl Scouts, are away at camp at Gardner Dam, the Brownie Pack 1, sponsored by First Congregational church, are a far from idle group although the program embodies no first or second classes, no manual of tests to be passed.

The 16 youngsters, between 7 and 10 years old, who make up Brownie Pack 1 have the distinction of being the first, and at present, only Brownie pack in the Twin Cities. Every Thursday afternoon, the members don their brown dresses and brown caps which are their uniforms and attend meetings in the club room of First Congregational church.

Mrs. Francis Langlais, their supervisor who is known as Brown Owl, has been superintending the Pack members in the making of pillows of brown, initiated in the

Menasha Eagles Face Rosendale Seek to Retain Lead in Winnebago League Sunday

Menasha—The Menasha Eagles will be fighting to retain undisputed possession of first place as well as remain undefeated in the Winnebago league Sunday afternoon when they play Rosendale on the latter's diamond.

The Eagles scored two overwhelming victories last Sunday, whipping Berlin, 19 to 1, and 11 to 0, in a doubleheader. "Honey" Beach hurled a no-hit, no-run game in the second contest.

Menasha will be heavy favorites to trip the Rosendale outfit. In the first conflict between the two aggregations, the Eagles counted a 14 to 7 victory.

Beach probably will hurl for the Eagles Sunday, and the rest of the line-up will be composed of Wilmet, St. Stephens 2b, Knoll 1b, Kraus c, Paolietski ss, Osawalski 3b, Hogs cf, and Stinski lf.

Boat Breaks Loose in Storm, Undamaged After Freak Trip

Neenah—Ghost galleons of the high seas, subjects of wild yarns by superstitious mariners, had nothing over the Jersey, a 30-foot motor launch, owned by Fred Hanke, 310 First street, Neenah.

During the terrific storm which smacked Neenah early last night, the skipperless Jersey went on a ghostly ride paralleled only by sailors' fiction. The Jersey broke loose from its mooring behind the Neenah Public library during the height of last night's storm, was carried down the Fox river, spilled over the Neenah dam, shipped through the piers beneath the bridge of Chicago and North Western railroad company and docked high and dry in six inches of water underneath of the N. Commercial street bridge.

The feature of the trip was that apparently the craft wasn't damaged, at least not extensively. A preliminary inspection of the launch by John Oskar, Jackson street, showed that there was very little water in the boat and apparently no damage to the cabin or the parts of the hull which were visible.

Townsmen today were trying to figure out how the launch got over the dam without being demolished and numerous solutions, all conjured, however, are being over the Neenah dam, shipped through the piers beneath the bridge of Chicago and North Western railroad company and docked high and dry in six inches of water underneath of the N. Commercial street bridge.

Workmen this morning were attempting to remove the launch.

Bitter Fighting Halts Nipponese On Mongol Border

Battle Enters Fourth Day In Undeclared Warfare

BY RUSSELL BRINES
With Japanese Troops at the Mongolian Frontier — Severe fighting apparently has halted Japanese-Manchoukuo troops today in a drive against the center of the Soviet-Mongol line, but the Japanese pushed both Mongol and flanks back across the Khalka river.

A heavy battle was in its fourth day and the undeclared border warfare had potentialities of becoming worse. The Nomonhan region (southeast of Lake Bor near the Khalka river) in the center has become a no-man's land, where troops face each other 300 yards apart.

(Soviet dispatches yesterday told of repulsing Japanese in a smashing victory in the central region along the Khalka, which runs along the Mongolian-Manchoukuo border for a short distance southeast of Lake Bor. Sporadic fighting has been in progress since May 11.)

reached the front after a hard, 30-hour automobile drive without food. The hot, mosquito-infested plain had become a marsh-land after a sudden cloudburst. Continuous streams of Japanese supply trucks were traveling to the front along rutted roads.

Both sides are well-equipped with light artillery and tanks. Both have plenty of manpower. I was driven to cover by accurate Mongol fire while watching a steady artillery duel near the confluence of the Khalka and Khorsten (Holstein) rivers. Approximately a mile and a quarter away a continuous clatter of machine-guns indicated the front lines around Nomonhan, with the Mongols apparently holding a narrow height. This means that had retreated some six miles of the 12 they previously had held.

New York — (AP) — Russell Brines, member of the Associated Press Tokio staff, was the first American newspaper man to reach the remote, Outer Mongolia-Manchoukuo war front.

Claude A. Swanson, Secretary of Navy, Dies in Virginia

the American navy may be, without a hitch, in time of war "the ability of a fighting force is reduced more than 50 per cent."

Swanson began seeing eye-to-eye with Roosevelt when the latter was assistant secretary of the navy in the World War period, and the former was chairman of the senate naval affairs committee.

At that time Roosevelt was supposed to have shared Swanson's dream of "an American empire of floating fortresses second to none."

Later he kept pace with trend to reduce armaments. Meanwhile he was quickly brought to realize necessity for building up the aerial side of naval preparedness.

Midway in his administration, the secretary opened bids on two new and powerful aircraft carriers following the Ranger, the nation's first aircraft carrier originated as such. Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Swanson accepted invitations to sponsor the two new carriers when their launching dates were fixed for the spring and summer of 1936.

Not "Sea-Going" Official
Although he spent years of his lifetime for improvement of the navy, the secretary, himself, was never a "sea-going secretary" as was his predecessor, Charles Francis Adams of Massachusetts.

He found pleasure in sailing "if someone else was doing the navigating."

He liked to fish—in mountain brooks. While he was secretary he frequented the camp established on the Rapidan by President Hoover.

Through his long public career Swanson was in demand socially and politically. He rendered service to the Democratic national committee through his work with the speakers' bureau, private counsel and actual campaigning.

Old School Orator
He was an orator of the old, ring-words, stump school. His political power was known throughout his native state from his early manhood.

As governor of Virginia he was given credit for instigating far-reaching changes, many of which did not come to pass until long after he had returned to the federal government.

Swanson was born of parents who were tobacco planters in southern Virginia. His boyhood brought him through the bankruptcy days of Reconstruction in the south. He worked for his education. At 16 he was teaching men older than he. Grocery store clerk brought more funds for his education.

As a lawyer in Chatham, Va., he started gabbling in politics, and soon abandoned his practicing attorney career for his long political service.

Composite Price of Milk Shows Decline

Milwaukee — (AP) — Charles F. Diene, secretary of the Milwaukee Cooperative Milk Producers' association, said yesterday that the composite price to producers during June dropped from 1 to 2 cents per 100 pounds, while fluid milk sales continued to increase.

The month generally is marked by a sharp decrease in prices, Diene said. The composite price—average for all milk sold, whether for retail, consumption or dairy products manufacture—was $1.53, he revealed.

Texas is the nation's leading sheep-producing state.

Twin City 1939 College Grads Are Finding Few Idle Moments

Menasha — College graduates are those people about whom much is written each June concerning employment opportunities or lack of them, but Neenah and Menasha young people who received degrees in June are having little difficulty.

Jane Bisping, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bisping, First street, and Miss Eleanor Stadtmueller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Stadtmueller, 905 S. Commercial street, Neenah, had no more than packed their diplomas away with other college day mementoes when they went to work. Miss Bisping is employed at the Banta Publishing company and Miss Stadtmueller is statistician in the Marathon Paper mills in Menasha.

Miss Margaret Jones, 332 First street, daughter of Mrs. H. W. Jones, is taking advantage of the summer vacation days for in September she will leave for Minneapolis, Minn., to assume her duties as dental hygienist in that city's public school system. Miss Jones graduated from the University of Minnesota in June.

Miss Elizabeth Howlett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Howlett, First street, who received her degree from Mount Mary college, hasn't definite plans for fall as yet but is planning to leave next month with her family for New York and the World's Fair. The Howletts will return by way of Canada.

Norman Bruehl, son of the Joseph Bruehl, 516 Second street, who was graduated from Lawrence college last month, is attending summer session at the University of Wisconsin.

Edmund Webster, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Webster, 517 Caroline street, another Lawrence college graduate, is managing a service station this summer. His plans for future study are not definite as yet.

Miss Phyllis Herziger, daughter of the Louis Herziger, W. Forest avenue, who has been doing graduate work in the library school at the University of Wisconsin, is expected home for the summer Saturday.

The outing will get underway shortly after 3:30, and a softball game will precede a picnic luncheon and refreshments.

Neenah — The Neenah Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold its monthly meeting Tuesday evening, July 11, at Ad Hennig's cottage at Payne's Point. It was reported today.

The outing will get underway shortly after 3:30, and a softball game will precede a picnic luncheon and refreshments.

GIRL DROWNS

Girl Missing in Airplane Flight Reported Taken Into Custody by Missouri Sheriff

Poplar Bluff, Mo. — (AP) — Sheriff Walter Beck at Charleston said today he had in custody a girl who gave her name as Goldie Gehrken, for whom a search has been conducted in Illinois.

Miss Gehrken, 17, of Vernon, Ill., and a barnstorming pilot, took off on a flight last Monday and did not return.

The sheriff said a man companion of the girl took off in an airplane before he could be reached. He was believed to be flying toward Poplar Bluff.

Trooper Nathan Massie of the state highway patrol said the number of the ship checked with that of an airplane reported stolen in Frankfort, Ind., last week.

Sheriff H. E. Vogt of Salem, Ill., had said the flier had been going under the name of Larry Thompson.

Salem, Ill. — (AP) — The airplane disappeared of a pretty and young, brunet and a barnstorming aviator became more of a story book puzzle today as authorities checked reports that the small cabin plane circled over the girl's home late yesterday but failed to land.

Theorizing that the young pilot and 17-year-old Goldie Gehrken who flew away with him last Monday probably landed before dark, officers centered the search for them in the area east of there.

A yellow and silver colored airplane identified by the girl's mother, Mrs. John Gehrken, as the one in which her daughter left a field near her home at Vernon, flew low over the Gehrken residence late in the afternoon. It circled and headed for a landing field. A crowd gathered to meet the elusive pair. But the ship flew over the village and disappeared.

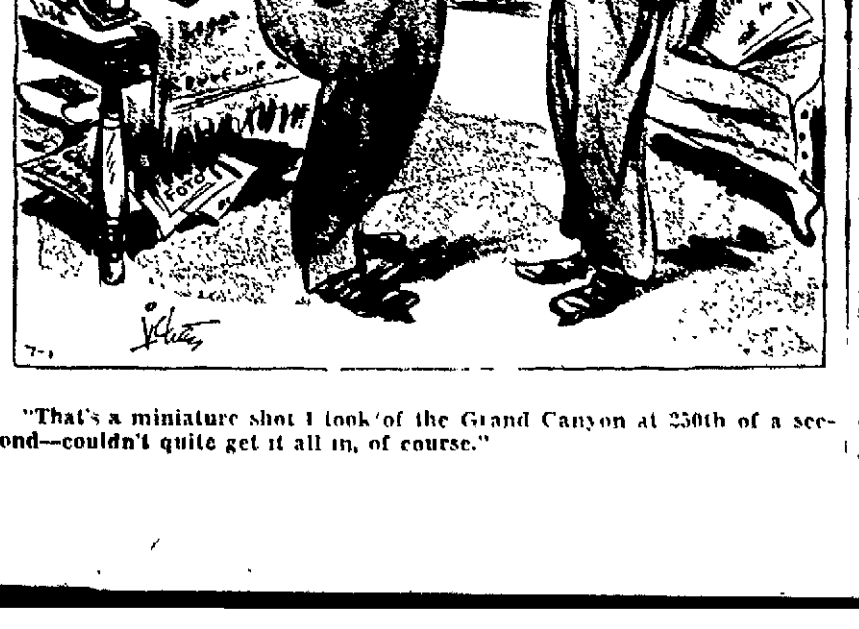

Mrs. Gehrken and other observers said a man and a woman were in the plane.

Made Previous Flight
The flier had been hauling passengers at Vernon several days. Goldie had been up with him once before and Monday she related they were going on a short flight to Ramsey. That night Thompson telephoned, urging the parents not to worry and said they would return the next day. They did not come.

Although no charges have been filed against the pilot, Sheriff Vogt said persons who saw the ship yesterday reported its identification number was NC20985—the same as that on a ship reported stolen last week at Frankfort, Ind.

Illinois state police were aiding in the hunt, but federal officials have declined to enter the search pending proof the couple had crossed a state line.

Curb on Political Activities Draws Democratic Fire

Leaders Announce They'll Oppose Provision of Hatch Bill

Washington — (AP) — House Democratic leaders have decided to oppose efforts to restore to the Hatch bill a prohibition against federal administrative officers taking any active part in political management or political campaigns.

This attitude became known today as some members, supported by Senator Hatch (D-N.M.), predicted the measure would not receive congressional approval unless the section was put back.

The house judiciary committee eliminated it last week just before approving the legislation because, some committee members contended, it unnecessarily circumscribed otherwise legal activities of high government officials.

President Roosevelt was said by some house members to have submitted recently to committee a less stringent substitute. It was rejected by the committee.

The legislation was intended to take politics out of relief, forbid a federal official from using his official authority to influence an election, and prohibit any intimidation or coercion by any person in a national election.

After a heated hearing the rules committee yesterday cleared the way for house consideration of the bill, probably late next week.

Rep. Dempsey (D-N.M.), house sponsor of the bill, said at one point that relief workers in every state had been "chiseled" out of their money by political organizations.

"Sir, I don't believe that," Rep. Sabath (D-Ill.) interposed. "I don't believe that has happened in three-fourths or even one-half of the states."

"Do you have one in mind?" "Illinois," "That's the best joke I've heard in a long time," Dempsey said, his face flushing.

Rep. Parsons (D-Ill.) termed the bill "the most superfluous and most useless" and "ridiculous" legislation of which he had knowledge.

Californian Says 34 Senators Sign Declaration to Oppose Changes in Neutrality Law

ted on this" the silver-haired Californian declined to list them.

Among those who attended the strategy session in Johnson's office were: Borah (R-Idaho), Nye (R-N.D.), LaFollette (D-Wis.), Bone (D-Wash.), Clark (D-Mo.), Vandenberg (R-Mich.), Shipstead (F.L.Minn.), Capper (R-Kans.), Lodge (R-Mass.), Holt (D-W. Va.), White (R-Maine), Reed (R-Kans.), Danaher (R-Conn.) and Clark (D-Idaho).

Lodge one of the first to leave the session, said the statement had been framed by no single author.

"Nearly everybody had a hand in it," Lodge said. "We are determined to keep this country out of war by remaining neutral."

Sensors said that Johnson, LaFollette, Clark (D-Mo.) and Nye signed invitations to the session, sent to about 40 senators.

The house already has approved a modified arms embargo, and the senate foreign relations committee is expected to consider the house measure Saturday.

Later, however, Chairman Pittman (D-Neu.) postponed the committee meeting until Tuesday, explaining that many members would be out of town during the weekend.

Senator Nye, however, contended the meeting was postponed because administration forces were unsure of enough votes to approve their neutrality proposals.

Senate Adjourns
The senate met and adjourned quickly today, out of respect for Secretary of the Navy Swanson who died this morning at the Rapidan camp in Virginia. The house was in recess.

On the monetary front, the administration arranged to have Secretary Hull discuss "good neighbor" aspects of a prohibition against purchase of foreign silver. A senate banking committee expects to hear Hull next week. Senate Republicans are seeking separate legislation to obtain the prohibition.

Charles Fahy, general counsel of the labor relations board told the senate labor committee that A. F. of L. charges of CIO-bias on the part of the labor board were baseless.

Monetary Fight was New High In Senate-White House Snarl

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER
Washington — It's all right now, for President Roosevelt finally got his monetary powers extended. But during the last few days of suspense there have been some administration officials who must have regretted the day nearly two years ago when they interfered in the senate leadership fight and forced the selection of Senator Barkley of Kentucky over Senator Pat Harrison by changing one vote.

From that time on, senate resistance to the White House has been growing. Under every president, a struggle for power develops between the White House and the senate. It already was under way when the White House forces aggravated it by forcing the senate to set up Barkley as majority leader. Time and again the feeling, always smouldering, has blazed forth, as when senators caught the administration secretly facilitating the purchase of airplanes by the French. It flamed out in the court bill fight and in the reorganization bill struggle.

Last week it burned more fiercely than ever over the monetary bill — centering around the question of renewing the president's power to devalue the dollar. The issue in itself was not particularly momentous. In the present uncertain foreign situation, it seems that better part of wisdom to give the president flexible power over the dollar, but the point does not appear to be of overwhelming importance.

However it was seized upon as the vehicle of a fight to lay a heavy blow on Mr. Roosevelt, one that would register effectively in the public mind. The senate would take away one of his powers in a spectacular way that would show the country who was boss.

Republicans, Silver Democrats
Gain In Common Cause
Anti-Roosevelt Democrats were glad to participate in this and Republicans took the initiative in making the deal with the silver Democrats voting them a fat slice of bacon by boosting the price of silver. Thus, in the deal, sturdy old hard-money boys like Vandenberg of Michigan and Austin of Vermont were at one and the same time demanding a return to sound money and voting an additional treasury grab for the silver crowd.

It was a crude deal but a bold one, so transparent that they would hardly have had the nerve to attempt it against an administration leadership that was on the job. Senator Barkley, it is said around the capitol, was oblivious to what was going on in the cloak rooms until only a few minutes before the vote. Even then he may not have realized the extent to which the sound-money-silverite deal had reached. If he had, he would scarcely have allowed the senate to vote at that time, but would have played for delay in order to break up the combination.

Barkley Plays Into the Hands of the Opposition
Furthermore, during debate Barkley played into the hands of the wrecking crew by stating that if the powers were not extended by midnight on June 30, they would expire and completely new legislation would be required. He said they could not be revived simply by voting to "continue what does not exist."

After the deadline passed without action, majority leader Barkley was compelled to reverse himself and to take exactly the opposite position, namely that congress could still vote a continuation of the powers. This involves a question of legality which may be a subject of prolonged controversy.

The net of a week of schoolboy politics over this monetary legislation is that some conservative republicans are going to have to explain why they were caught in bed with silver price fixers, the administration leadership of the senate has barely squeaked through after a humiliating experience, the silverites managed to trade all around the place and grab another half a loaf out of the confusion, and Mr. Roosevelt has retained the powers as asked.

This certainly is a free country, all right.

Riggs Defeats Cooke for Title

Wins Three of Five Sets For All-England Net Honors

Wimbledon, England.—(7)—Bob Riggs of Chicago, beat his roommate and doubles partner, Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., 2-6, 8-6, 3-6, 6-2, today in the all-American final of the all-England tennis championship.

Though he was within a point of losing the first two sets, Riggs, playing with that sublime nonchalance which has baffled the British critics, pulled Cooke back almost as he liked and never really looked like a loser after the start of the fourth set.

Riggs, making his debut at Wimbledon, now has won 13 straight from Cooke, who was not even considered good enough by the United States Lawn Tennis association to have his full expenses paid to the tournament. The only other American ever to win the Wimbledon title on his first visit was Ellsworth Vines in 1932.

Riggs got a valuable lead in the fifth and final set but Cooke dragged him back level at 2-2. However, Bobby broke through his roommate's service for a vital advantage in the fifth game when Bobby missed two whistling baseline drives by inches. Bobby won the sixth to love for a 4-2 lead. After that he simply ran away as he liked.

HERE ARE SOME HORSEMANSHIP SUGGESTIONS

By Buell Patterson
HORSEBACK riding has become such a popular and universal sport and so many summer resorts as well as dude ranches are offering saddle horses for their guests that we have had many requests for some simple riding hints.

The first problem is that of mounting the horse correctly. He should always be approached from the front and the rider should face the horse in a position approximately even with the horse's neck just above the saddle.

The left foot should be placed in the stirrup iron and the left knee be brought against the saddle. The right hand should be placed on the back of the saddle. When the left foot is placed in the stirrup the toe should be pointed outward so that it will not jab into the side of the horse. A jab will cause him to move away.

Rise from the ground by pushing the right leg and pulling with the arms. The left knee should be bent against the saddle to steady the rider. The upper portion of the body should be inclined forward to prevent the right of the body from turning the saddle. The right foot should be swung over the saddle and be placed in the stirrup as the reins are taken up.

Both hands are used in taking up the reins as the snaffle reins are held one in each hand, the rein coming into the hand under the little finger and passing out over the second joint of the fourth finger, on which the thumb, slightly bent, presses and holds it.

The reins should be held so that the rider has a slight pressure on the bit in the horse's mouth. The forearms should be held horizontally with approximately a ninety degree angle between the arm and the forearm.

The elbows should rest lightly against the body; the hands closed, backs outward and vertical; wrist and back of the hands should be straight and in continuation of the forearm line. The hands should be carried about one hand breadth above the withers of the horse.

The double bridle reins are held two in each hand as mentioned above for the single bridle equipment, except that the reins come into the hands above the little fingers. To shorten the reins the rider brings the wrists together and grasps with one hand above and near the opposite thumb on the rein he desires to shorten. To lengthen the rein the rider permits it to slip through his fingers until the desired length is obtained.

Dubuque U. Coach Resigns from Post

Dubuque, Iowa.—(7)—University of Dubuque officials today had the resignation of Bob Fitzke, basketball and football coach the past two years, effective Sept. 1.

Fitzke said he intended to continue his studies at a chiropractic school at Davenport, Iowa, where he now is enrolled.

Fitzke gained athletic prominence at LaCrosse (Central) High and went on to stardom at the University of Idaho, rivaling Ernie Nevers, formerly of Superior, as the greatest fullback of the time.

Like Nevers, Fitzke had a trial as pitcher in the American league, but after a brief spell with Cleveland spent most of his time with Scranton in the NYP league. He came to Dubuque from Scranton.

CHAIR FACTORY upset Marathon Papers of Menasha by an 11 to 6 score for its first American Industrial league victory of the season in a tilt at Roosevelt school diamond last evening. Marathons were without the services of their ace twirler, Johnny Knoll, and Chair battlers found the offering of John Ross to their liking as they collected nine runs in the first five innings.

Reischle relieved Ross in the fifth frame and checked Chairs with two runs the remainder of the route. The pair gave up 15 hits. Ross fanned one and walked one while Reischle struck out six and passed none. Gil Schreck tossed the first four innings for the Chairs and allowed four runs on two hits and two walks combined with three of his teammates' errors in the first stanza.

Sonny Filz, new Chair hurler, took over in the last five frames and allowed two runs on five hits and three walks. Schreck whiffed five while Filz struck out nine.

Chairs scored single runs in the first three innings and twice in the fourth to take a 5 to 4 lead. They put the game on ice in the fifth with four runs.

Whaff Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

THE Northern State league closes the first round of play Sunday with Clintonville and Seymour scheduled in two games. One will be a postponed contest from last night featuring Seymour at Clintonville. The game was washed out by the big storm.

Clintonville has the first round title won because some of the postponed games in the circuit can't be played by the deadline and will be canceled. For a time it appeared the league would have to stretch a few rules to get all the games played but Seymour's dive in a couple contests last week removed that crisis. And it might have been a real crisis!

When the second round opens next week the race will be tougher than during the first round for the clubs seem to have the same strength. New London will be tough if it gets pitching and the boys don't take to throwing the ball over the heads of basemen. The Bulldogs can tan the horse-hide like no other team in the loop.

Green Bay will show several new faces in the second round and will be better. Seymour has threatened to make several changes and if the lads don't bear down over the weekend the changes are almost certain to come. Seymour has been paying well and regularly but it wants a few hits and steady fielding in return.

Dear Mac:
There's an undefeated baseball team in the city with 14 wins and no defeats. You have to look the paper over twice in order to find the writeup where the teams out of town always have the headlines. This undefeated team played under lights July 2, but in the spring was refused a franchise in the Fox Valley league. This team will now challenge any team in the valley, including the Northern State league, under lights or otherwise. This team also on July 2 played three games winning all three. Scoring 31 runs to the opponent's lone run including the night game which was not in the headlines but was advertised several days before the game. How about it, Mac. Let's see some swell writeups for the boys that work so hard but for a good purpose.

Signed—"A Baseball Fan."
(Editor's Note: The team is the Appleton Athletics playing in and leading the Winnebago league.)

Information has been received from Alden W. Thompson, "Ziggy" when he went to Lawrence back in the "golden era" of Mark Catlin, the Tippecanoe, Abrahamson, Wiley, Berry and others, that he again is dean of the summer coaching school at West Virginia University. The school will feature Dr. John Sutherland of Pitt, Dick Harlow of Harvard and Earl Martineau of Michigan, among others. It will be conducted Aug. 7 to 12. Thompson is dean of the university's physical education department and this is his second year.

Balloting for the All-Star football team to play in Chicago next month has started and folks in this section are plugging for Obbie Novakowski, Menasha, former Lawrence star. His name is on several ballots being distributed throughout the state. Look around for the ballots at the sports shops.

Pirates Make Dizzy Dean Eat Those Words About 'Giving Up'

PITTSBURGH.—(7)—It was Jerome Herman Dean speaking today, not the Dizzy who a little while ago burned up the Pirates with the crack they lost the '38 pennant because "you gave up."

The Bucs had their say yesterday with their bats and sent the old master to the showers for the third consecutive time while handing him his first defeat this year by a 7-2 count.

Even at that, if Dicky Bartell hadn't tossed a double play ball while Pittsburgh would not have scored a run in a big third inning and might not have won.

"I haven't any alibi," rambled a strangely subdued Dizzy. "I did my best but it wasn't quite good enough."

But the Cubs' $185,000 prize knows and all the veterans will tell you that it's harder to beat a club that gets stirred up than one viewing the proceedings impersonally. And virtually the whole Pirate outfit was bothered about Dizzy's indictment.

Dean Outspoken
The feuding dates back to last September when Dean and what the Pirates vow was a nothing ball captured one of those crucial games in Chicago which decided the pennant. Then the "pop-off" resumed the trouble this season when he was outspoken as usual in saying the Bucs lost because they quit.

Those are hard words even for professional ball players so yesterday when Dizzy was slapped out of there in the fourth you can lay to it he walked off with quite a few juicy reminders from the Pirates concerning his charge.

After it was all over, Dean wasn't popping off as usual. In fact, he was thinking of how he would get with the fans when he's all washed up.

"The public has always treated me swell," declared Dizz. "I've tried, and I believe I have always given everything I have to the game. I hope the public will think well of me when I'm through with baseball."

He wouldn't even guess at the number of games he would win this year, said "the ol' arm" was still bothering him but thought it "would get thrown out in time."

Johnny Bulla Favored To Win British Open

St. Andrews, Scotland.—(7)—Long-hitting Johnny Bulla of Chicago slamed out a par 73 for his final round over the wind-lashed Royal and Ancient course today to take the lead, and a good chance at the title, in the British open golf championship with a 72-hole score of 292.

The Carolina-born professional's closing bid overhauled Jock Fallon, Little-known British pro who led with 215 at 54 holes but, over-cautious and nervous, blew to a 79 this afternoon.

Bulla after shooting a third-round 71, might have had a 70 for his last 18 if he had not putted too strongly on the first three holes.

As "Johnny" came marching home, the wind was raising hob on the back nine to improve his chances of taking the crown.

Chicago Sox Run Winning Streak To Five Straight

Jack Knott Hurls 5-Hit Ball and Team Mauls Indians

CHICAGO.—(7)—With Jack Knott pitching five-hit ball and Gee Walker contributing his ninth homer and a triple to a 12-hit attack, the Chicago White Sox ran their winning streak to five games yesterday by defeating Cleveland again, 8 to 1.

Breaking a fourth place tie between the teams, the game tumbled the Indians into fifth place.

Six Chicago players chipped in two hits apiece against a quartet of Cleveland pitchers—Johnny Allen, Joe Dobson, Bill Zuber and Paul Sullivan. Allen, who shut out the Sox with three hits the last time he faced them, was relieved with none out in the second inning after a pass and singles by Eric McNair, Mike Tresh and Knott had one run in and the bases filled.

McNair's pair of singles increased his batting spurge to 15 hits in his last 20 times at bat.

APPLETON'S OLDEST GOLFER

The honor of being Appleton's oldest golfer undoubtedly goes to the Rev. T. J. Sauer, above. He is 76 years young but still finds the energy to skip around the municipal golf course about once a week. He has played golf for the last four or five years and up to last season could be found on the course several times weekly. He works on par just as hard as any other golfer and turns in scores around 50 for the nine holes. Whenever he shaves off a stroke or two on a hole he's most proud and his family hears about it for several days thereafter. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

LITTLE CHUTE—The Outagamie County league's Northern division has Black Creek perched in first place with seven victories and only one defeat but Nichols still has a chance to pass up the leaders providing some of the other clubs also can knock off the top team. Nichols invades Black Creek Sunday and a real tussle is expected as the invaders must win to stay in the running.

Zuelsdorf is expected to toe the mound for the Creekers with Huettl on the receiving end although Le Capitaine also may be behind the plate with Huettl at short. Nichols may have Krull in the lead to relieve Krull if he falters. J. Krull will be behind the bat.

In the other Northern tilt, Shiocton will travel to Freedom to battle Shorty Plaman and company. Freedom has been going hot of late and recently had the loop leaders, Black Creek, on the short end of the count until the sixth inning only to lose amidst many arguments and a near riot. Plaman is expected to be on the mound for Freedom with Schommer receiving. Erke will toe the mound for Shiocton with Shephard receiving.

In the Southern division Appleton tees to Greenville to meet the league leading Merchants in a first place battle. Little Chute also has a chance to land in first place if it defeats the Grangers. In last Sunday's games both Appleton and Little Chute were upset with Greenville Grange collecting 17 hits off two Cozy Tavern twirlers. Men Ryzin or Reider will face the Merchants for Cozy Tavern with Wetengel or Kloes receiving. Reimer or Huebner will toe the Y. M. C. A. chalked up its eighth straight Fraternal league triumph at Wilson school diamond last evening by taking a 7 to 3 measure of the Institute in a 6-inning game. Overcast skies made visibility poor and both teams were guilty of many misplays, the "Y" committing four miscues and the Institute boys making eight miscues.

Branchford was on the mound for the winners and struck out five while walking four and giving up six hits. Costigan tossed for the losers and allowed 10 hits while fanning none and walking none.

Institute was the first to score as the team jumped on Branchford for three runs in the first frame. Woitwage started off by drawing a walk and took second when Meldam was given a life on an error. Knep singled to score Woitwage and Meldam was out trying for third. Zick walked to send Knep to second. Bill Burton beat out a hit to Risch to score Knep. Risch threw wide to first and Burton and Zick gained second and third. Larsen ended the inning by fouling out.

After a shaky start, Branchford took hold of things and never was in any further danger. His mates came to life in the third and pushed over five runs with Fuerst singling and being forced at second by LaMarr. LaMarr made second and tallied when Schwandt singled. Schwandt took second when Krause was thrown out and scored on Captain's hit. Branchford beat out an infield hit and Fuerstner reached first on an error to fill the bases. Heinie Rammer drilled a triple to drive in three runs.

The "Y" lads made certain of the outcome by scoring two more runs in the fourth. Welton opened with a triple and Fuerst singled to score Welton. Fuerst went to third when LaMarr's fly was dropped and the latter pulled up at second. Krause singled to score Fuerst and LaMarr was tagged when he attempted to score.

Jungels Is Wild, Milwaukee Bows To Louisville, 5-2

Minneapolis Reduces Kansas City's Lead to Game and a Half

LOUISVILLE, KY. —(AP)—Aided by Kenny Jungels' wildness, the Louisville Colonels scored a 5 to 2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers last night in the opener of a four-game series.

Three bases on balls yielded by Jungels after a single by Stan Spence and an error by Ralph Winger, Milwaukee third baseman, gave the Colonels a two-run lead in the first inning.

Milwaukee tallied both its runs in the fifth frame when Roy Johnson's single brought home Manager Mickey Heath and Jungels. The Colonels picked up one run in the same inning on a walk to Fabian Gaffney and Bob Boken's double, and scored the final two in the eighth.

The score: Milwaukee—5, Louisville—2. AB R H: Jungels 3 1 0, Spence 3 1 0, Johnson 3 1 0, Winger 3 0 0, Boken 3 1 0, Gaffney 3 1 0, Bolen 3 0 0, Campbell 3 0 0, Miller 3 0 0, Smith 3 0 0, Brown 3 0 0, Davis 3 0 0, Feller 3 0 0, Bridges 3 0 0, McGinnis 3 0 0, Reynolds 3 0 0, Greenberg 3 0 0, Derringer 3 0 0, Prusoff 3 0 0, Sabin 3 0 0, Schatz 3 0 0, Tamm 3 0 0, Van Cuyk 3 0 0, Werber 3 0 0, Wood 3 0 0, Zerkow 3 0 0.

Errors—Winger, Miller, Campbell. Two bases—Hernandez, Bolen. Stolen bases—Morgan, Chelick, Sacrifices—Hernandez, Campbell, Bolen, Smith to Miller to Stein; Bolen to Schatz to Campbell.

Minneapolis reduced Kansas City's lead to a game and a half last night by defeating Columbus, 7 to 3, while the Blues were breaking even at Indianapolis.

A sweep of a double header with the Red Birds tonight, with additional cooperation from Indianapolis, would elevate the Millers to the top spot.

The challengers had comparatively easy going last night as Bill Butland shut out the Red Birds in all but one inning to score his eleventh victory of the year.

Meantime, Kansas City, beaten in the opener 2 to 1 after 10 innings, came back to win the second game at Indianapolis, 6 to 0 behind Marv Breuer's three hit hurling.

At Toledo, Art Herring and Freddie Hutchinson engaged in a tight mound duel until two singles, a wild pitch and a sacrifice fly in the ninth broke up a 1 to 1 tie and gave Herring and St. Paul a 2 to 1 decision.

Bob Pastor Signs for Clash With Joe Louis

NEW YORK. —(AP)—Bob Pastor, New York heavyweight contender, formally signed a contract today to fight Joe Louis for the world's championship in September.

Neither the time nor place was set, but Mike Jacobs, head of the 20th century sporting club expects to announce Monday that the bout will be held in Briggs Stadium, Detroit, with Sept. 21 as the probable date.

Louis, in Atlantic City, was not represented at the signing. Jacobs said the champ and his managers already have agreed to terms.

Walter O. Briggs, Jr., one of the officials of the Detroit American League baseball club, will come here Monday to confer with Jacobs relative to leasing the ball park for the fight.

One of the provisions of Pastor's contract is that if he is successful in winning the title, he will give Louis a return bout within four months.

Every All-Star Game Has A Star Of Stars: Who'll Be Yankee Stadium Hero On July 11?

Johnny Vander Meer

Joe Medwick

Whitlow Wyatt

Morris Arnovich

NEW YORK. —(AP)—Clever pitching and a tight defense took the sting out of the American league's attack a year ago. And so the National league is banking its chances again on a smart corps of twirlers in baseball's All-Star game at Yankee Stadium July 11.

Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati's double no-hit kid, who let the Americans down with only one hit in his opening three-inning stretch and drew credit for the Nation's 4-1 victory, is on deck again. So is Chicago's Bill Lee, who followed the southpaw in the box and was also stingy with his hits.

Other possible starters are Whitlow Wyatt, Brooklyn's "rookie" ace who learned lots about pitching in the other loop; Curt Davis, the workhorse of the Cardinals; Lou Fette, Boston's old-timer who tossed a one-hitter last month; Lon Warneke, another Cardinal going strong, and Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer of Cincinnati.

To offset these rival aces the American league has assembled a pitching corps that, on paper, appears even stronger than that of the senior circuit.

At the time the teams were announced the American staff had won 63 games and lost 18 while the Nationals had won 63 and lost 34. The Americans will rely on Lefty Grove, Ted Lyons, Bob Feller, Tommy Bridges, Red Ruffing, Buck Newsom, Lefty Gomez and Johnny Murphy.

Ruth Starred in 1933

Who'll be the hero of this annual classic?

No one can say, but every game has had its hero and its goat. Let's look back through the years. The inaugural game at Comiskey Park, Chicago, in 1933, was a personal triumph for that fading star, Babe Ruth. He slammed a homer into the right-field stands to score two runs as the Americans won, 4-2. And Lefty Gomez tallied the first of his three victories in All-Star combats.

Another ace who is missing this year was the big noise in 1934—King Carl Hubbell. Although the Americans won again at New York's Polo Grounds, 9-7, Hubbell produced one of the finest pitching performances on record when he struck out Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Jimmy Foss, Al Simmons and Joe Cronin in succession. The Nationals were out front, 4-0, when Hub retired, but the Americans later slaughtered Lon Warneke, Van Lingle Mungo and Dizzy Dean for the winning runs.

A slugger drew top attention in 1935 at Cleveland. Foss hit a first-inning homer that scored two runs and later knocked in another. The Americans won, 4-1, as the Nationals were able to gather but four hits.

The senior circuit finally scored a victory in 1936 at Boston, 4-3, and Old Diz was top man. Dean held the A's hitless during his opening three innings as the Nationals got to Curt Davis for three runs in the seventh. Joe DiMaggio, making his first appearance, was the game's goat. He missed a shoe-string catch that went for a triple, made another error and went hitless. Joe lined out in the seventh with the bases loaded. Gehrig made his first hit of the All-Star series, a homer.

Gehrig was Mr. Big in the 1937 game at Washington with President Roosevelt among the spectators—and Dean was the goat. Gehrig hit a homer off Dean with DiMaggio on base in the third. That was the beginning of the end for the Nationals. The cards were stacked against Hub that day, too. He lasted less than an inning against the Americans. DiMaggio's peg from center field to catch Burgess Whitehead at the plate was the outstanding field gem as the Americans won, 8-3.

Last year at Cincinnati the Nationals took control again, winning 4-1 behind fine pitching and a tight defense as the Americans' attack sputtered and fielding went haywire. The Americans made four errors. Foss and DiMaggio making wild throws that let in two runs. Only one of the Nationals' runs was earned. The game's climax came as Rudy York, Detroit's heavy-hitting catcher, struck out while pinch-hitting with the bases full in the seventh. Medwick made a tumbling catch of Dickey's liner to stop an American rally in the ninth. Gomez suffered his first defeat in the series.

Pirates Get Even With Dizzy; Beat Cubs by 7-2 Count

Dick Bartell's Error Paves Way for Pittsburgh Run s

PITTSBURGH. —(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates punctured the illusion of Dizzy Dean yesterday, forcing him out in the fourth inning as they crushed the Chicago Cubs, 7 to 2, and climbed into fifth place in the National league.

It was the first defeat of the season for Dean after four victories. Where once he had mowed down the Pirates with his streaking fast ball, Dean sought to slide by yesterday on curves and a change of pace and they pelted him with three runs and eight hits during the short period he worked.

Give Dizzy Lead The Cubs gave him a lead in the third when Stan Hack singled two runs across, but the Pirates teed off for three tallies in the last half of the error by Dick Bartell on Johnny Rizzo's grounder following two singles let in the first Pittsburgh run. Chuck Klein sacrificed another home and Elbie Fletcher tripled for the third.

Two singles at the start of the fourth caused Larry French to come rushing to Dean's relief—and the southpaw held his former teammates scoreless until the eighth, when they burst out with four runs.

Hurls Seventh Win Bob Klinger, who pitched a careful seven hit game for his seventh victory, got the third of three singles in this inning to bring in one run and Fern Bell tripled for two more and then scored himself when Carl Reynolds mused up the relay from centerfield.

It was Chicago's fourth loss in five games, during which they dropped from third to sixth place.

Street Department Softballers Will Meet City Officers

City official softballers who insist on getting in a practice game with someone before taking on Fond du Lac city officials in that big game at Fond du Lac Sunday, will tangle with the street department this evening under lights at the Spencer street field. Hostilities will begin about 8:15.

The officials were slated to play the firemen in a practice drill last night but the rain storm washed out the contest. Reports were the firemen were set to go in boots and raincoats, but the officials, used to sitting around inside, didn't have raincoats and had to call it all off.

Street department employees may give the city officials unexpected opposition. After all, they point out, they work harder and are in better condition. Several of them also play a little softball and they hope to get even for all past grievances against Alderman McGillan and his crowd.

Manager Claims Bettina Is Being Hypnotized Into Win

BY GATLE TALGOT NEW YORK. —(AP)—As proof that all the gags have not been exhausted, now comes Jimmie Grippo with a daily jolt of hypnotism for his fighter, Mello Bettina, who meets Billy Conn for the more-or-less light heavyweight title here next Thursday.

Grippo, a genuine hypnotist and sleight-of-hand expert, demonstrated his novel training technique yesterday in Bettina's camp at Beacon, N. Y. Commissioner Bill Brown promptly declared Grippo would have to do all his evil-eying and hand-waving before the fighters enter the ring.

"We don't care if he hypnotizes his fighter," declared Brown stoutly, "but he can't do it during the weigh-in or in the garden ring." Grippo said that was all right with him. As a matter of fact, he said, he intends to have Bettina so chock-full of hypnotism by the end of this week he won't need another shot before the bout.

Grippo isn't fooling about the beneficial effects he believes hypnotism has on Bettina. At any rate, he points out, Mello hasn't been licked since he began giving the fighter the eye, and now is recognized as light-heavy champion in the New York State. Yesterday, after Bettina had finished bawling four sparring partners about, Grippo sat down in a chair and went to work. Bettina was a willing subject. He relaxed and appeared to slip into a deep sleep as Grippo gave him the old hocus-pocus. At any rate, you couldn't prove he wasn't slumbering.

Leaning over his gladiator, Grippo then began yelling in a voice that echoed off nearby Mt. Beacon: "You're going to be strong and fast next Thursday night. You're going to obey instructions. You're going to hit hard with both hands. You're going to knock Conn out before the end of the seventh round. You're going to obey instructions." He kept that up for maybe five minutes, bearing down noticeably on the suggestion Bettina obey instructions. Then he brought Mello around, and the lad did look a little starchy-eyed.

"He doesn't know a thing I said to him while he was asleep," Grippo explained, "but it is planted in his subconscious mind. I've dinned it into his brain. The moment he sees Conn facing him in the ring it will begin to act on him."

Opening With No Trump Bid Valuable Move

BY ELY CULBERTSON

Many players, including experts, have a deep aversion to opening the bidding with a no trump. Considering the way this bid has been abused through the history of contract, I am not surprised at their feeling, but the fact remains that, properly gauged, the opening no trump bid is one of the most valuable of all bidding conventions. It is so precise in its implications that the partner can usually base his own responses, and particularly his doubles, on the soundest of foundations. Knowing almost exactly what to expect from the opening bidder, both in honor tricks and in distribution, he can chart his own course as infallibly as by the stars.

The bidding:
East South West North

West, it will be noted, was short only a fraction of a trick for a raise to two no trump. As a matter of fact, one-plus honor trick is sufficient when the strength is divided among three suits and the hand as a whole contains four or more honor cards, but West's honors were in only two suits and there were only three of them. Hence he was quite right not to "guess" and raise to two no trump. North, not naturally, was lulled into a false sense of security by West's pass and at match point duplicate, his decision to reopen the bidding with a double cannot be criticized. It was a fatal action, however, South would have been better advised to bid his lower ranking diamond suit, thereby giving North a chance to mention hearts or spades at the same level, but, with South's miserable hand, the result probably would have been the same in any case.

Now we come to the crucial point, West's penalty double. Although West had not had enough to go looking for at least eight tricks at no trump, his one-plus honor trick was quite adequate from a defensive point of view. He knew that East had about four honor tricks, which almost invariably develop another trick in the play. He, West, had at least one trick, and possibly two. Unless the opponents' hands were extremely freaky, at least a one trick set should certainly develop. As it happened, the contract was set on one trick, but four! In order to break up any possible cross ruff, West made the sound opening of a trump. Dummy won and the poor declarer had a miserable prospect to face. With the despairing thought that perhaps he could get in a couple of his own trumps by ruffing spades, he led a low spade from dummy. East bravely ducked and West won with the jack. Now West shifted to a club and East's jack won. The heart queen was returned and won in dummy. Another spade put East on lead and allowed him to cash the high heart, reducing the suffering declarer to one trump. A low diamond from the queen then put West on lead with the ace for another club lead through dummy's king. Dummy again ducked, the queen won and the club ace and six followed. There was no point in declarer's discarding a diamond on this trick, so he despairingly ruffed with his last trump and then, of course, could do no more than cash the diamond king. The defenders still had a good diamond and a high spade and declarer had been led in, in all, to three trump tricks and one diamond.

My Neighbor Says—

Turnips are a cool season crop but for the Fall and Winter supply they must be sown in June and July. They will get a start and make a slow growth until the cool weather sets in and then they will rapidly develop fine solid roots. A supply all summer is easily maintained in the home garden.

Use paper cups in preparing individual portions of frozen foods. Salads and desserts may then be served in the cases or unmolded.

A bushel of pears or peaches will produce about 15 quarts if the fruit is canned in halves.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

With a whisk of a soft goat's hair brush your skin is scented and soothed with a filter of fragrant powder in one of two famous scents.

During the hotter weather, grooming can be somewhat of a chore! With energy sapped by humidity and heat, it becomes pretty difficult for women to keep up a regular beauty routine. Yet meticulous grooming is a "must" if we wish to keep as fresh looking as crisp orchids and as cool as a limeade!

Of course, the daily bath and shower is a primary law, and they become more inviting if we have a refreshing cologne to splash over our newly bathed skins, and a fragrant body powder to insure longer hours of comfort!

A gay gadget which makes body-powdering less an effort, is a new feather soft goat's hair brush, which you whisk gently to have it shed a mist of beautifully scented powder! Its transparent crystal handle contains a month's supply of powder, and refills for it are available in two famous fragrances at a modest price. Many a chic lady will have it in her cabana this summer and shall see that her guests has one in the bath! The difficulty will be to keep the man of the house from snatching it, for he'll swear it was designed for his after-shaving pleasure!

Another brush innovation comes to us from England. A house-famed for its good brushes has designed a most amusing affair which scatters a fragrance through your hair as you brush it to a high sheen! Easily removed from the back are the bristles in a sanitary base, and after it has been thoroughly cleaned you slip it back into place with absorbent pad saturated with your favorite fragrance tucked between the refill and the handle! With each stroke of the brush, the perfume penetrates through specially punctured holes and thus your hair is alluringly and evenly scented!

Of course the brush may be used without the scenting, if you desire, for its true merit is its hygienic feature of the removable bristle refill. The frequent washings of the bristles will not harm the appearance of the handle-back (which is not the case with other good brushes). Satinwood, ebony, blue and pink give you a handle choice.

Hot Weather Make-Up Compact.
You know that you should never apply fresh make-up over old, for such clogging of your skin pores invites minor blemishes. But until a new compact was introduced, it was a difficult problem to cleanse your face each time you wanted to put fresh powder on your nose! Now a very unusual compact has made its debut which has been long awaited by beauty editors.

In one of its compartments, in a little well, is a supply of saturated cotton discs which are pore-deep cleansers and delightfully cooling and refreshing to boot! A metal cover to the well preserves their moisture.

The other compartment boasts of moisture-proof powder and cake rouge (you have choice of shades) and a lipstick serves as a clamp to hold the compact closed. No fumbling around your bag for your separate beauty aids—the four necessary ones are all together in a case ornately designed in enamel and gold.

Patri Declares Toy Guns are Not Safe Things for Children

BY ANGELO PATRI

Morris had a birthday and his aunt gave him a toy pistol. That pleased Morris tremendously and he went out to show it off. He took himself to the park where the mothers and children were sunning themselves. He pranced along the walk close to the low railing, snapping his pistol and yelling, "Stick 'em up!" when he came up with Andy, inside the railing and coming from the opposite direction.

With swift suddenness he thrust his gun against Andy's chest and yelled "Stick 'em up!" Down went Andy as though felled in his tracks. Morris thinking he was playing the game danced with joy and shouted, "You're dead. You're dead."

Andy didn't get up and that began to bother Morris who turned toward the benches with something of doubt in his attitude. One of the mothers who had seen the game crossed the walk to see what it was all about and found Andy unconscious.

The ambulance doctor said he was not hurt. He had fainted. His mother explained that Andy had been ill for a time and had been allowed to play in the park because it was sunny and he needed air and exercise. His heart wasn't too good, it seemed, and that was why he had fainted. He was weak and the excitement was too much.

The two mothers clashed there and then. Hard words passed between them. Morris' mother felt she was not to blame, but Andy's mother could see it as little short of murder. Poor Morris got many a black look as he was hurried off the scene, and was scolded thoroughly when at last he reached the safety of home.

Toy guns are not safe things for children. They cannot do harm physically, but they don't help any. They certainly teach little children the wrong idea about many things. It isn't sporting to stick a gun in another's face and yell, "Hands up." It is an affront when the gun is a toy, but it is a crime when it is the real thing. Children of tender years do not see the difference. It is another form of words, that's all.

But a word is a powerful force. In time the word becomes a core of experiences and those experiences create an idea and an idea can be strong enough to wreck or to save him toward whom it is directed. I am afraid that if I put a gun, a little wooden gun, into a child's hand, and teach him to play he is a bandit or a soldier or a G-man that in time, the idea that springs from my teaching will rise to destroy the man who was that child.

I am not so deluded as to believe that force in human affairs is unnecessary. We have two forces in our lives, one good, the other evil, and the good will have to defend itself until such time as it becomes dominant. But that does not say that little children should be trained to use guns in their play. If ever the time comes to use a gun, which we hope is never, he can be trained to its use. Childhood is not the time.

Guns are made for one purpose—they are to be used in the cause of death. Anybody who tells a child that shooting off a gun is a pleasant sporting thing to do takes a graver responsibility upon his shoulders than most men in their sober moments would care to assume.

Helping your child adjust to conditions he finds in school and on the playground is an important and difficult task for any parent. Be guided by Angelo Patri's booklet, "The Child and Other People." Send for it, enclosing ten cents.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

iced tea this way, is it proper to ask friends to pour from the pitchers just as they would be asked to pour hot tea?

Answer: Iced tea is proper, and preferred by most people, during the hot weather. Hot biscuits are of course avoided, but otherwise the typical sandwiches, cakes and cookies, are served with cold tea, that are served with hot. Although as a rule no one is asked to pour iced tea, I think it might be a good idea to ask a deputy hostess to sit in front of the tray of glasses and the pitchers, not so much to help people as to give any guests who are unsure, therefore, likely to find themselves without any one to join and talk to, the right to linger and talk with the lady sitting at the tea table. Since her most particular duty is to look after the timid, if all those coming know each other well then it is not necessary to have any one pour.

For Non-Smokers
Dear Mrs. Post: I am a young married woman, and neither my husband nor I smoke. Most of my friends do. When I invite them to my house, am I supposed to provide cigarettes for them or is it all right to take for granted that they will smoke their own cigarettes since they all carry them.

Answer: If you are giving a party you should certainly include cigarettes in your provisions. But if people merely stop in to see you it is not necessary to proffer cigarettes. Since you say, all smokers carry their own, moreover, they usually refuse those of non-smokers because they are all too likely to find them stale. To keep a few unopened packages is of course the best plan.

The Clergyman's Wife at the Wedding
Dear Mrs. Post: Must the clergyman's wife be invited to the wedding and the reception, both of which are taking place at the home? She is not a personal friend, and the wedding guests are all intimates. In fact, the minister will be an outsider, too, but I suppose he will have to be invited to remain, won't he?

Answer: It is always taken for granted that those at the house are expected to stay for the breakfast or the reception. Therefore, you need not say anything to the clergyman beforehand; after the ceremony is over your father should suggest to him that he go out into the dining-room for something to eat. Perhaps he does, or perhaps he leaves. The wife of a clergyman who is a stranger is seldom invited because her husband's presence is in this case professional.

STUFFING FOR EGGS
Here's a filling for stuffed eggs: Mash hard-cooked yolks, and mix in some chopped cooked tongue, chopped ripe olives, a dash of minced pickles and onion, and enough salad dressing to moisten slightly. Try a platter of these for your next buffet supper. Dress up the tops with minced parsley and pimientos. You can make them up an hour or so ahead of serving time.

NEW ICE-CREAM SAUCE
For something new in ice-cream sauces, try this grapejuice nut topping: Mix four tablespoons of light brown sugar with four tablespoons of flour and one cup of grapejuice; pour in half a cup of crushed pineapple and two tablespoons of lemon juice. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until a creamy sauce forms. Cool, then add third of a cup of orange juice. Chill until needed.

Women's Economic Freedom Is Cause of New Problems

BY DOROTHY DIX

When women were first given the privilege of following gainful occupations it seemed to us to be one of the greatest steps forward in progress that society had ever made. We rejoiced to think that the shackles of financial dependence had been stricken from women and that they could now stand on their own feet. That there would be no more women who had to sell themselves into unloving marriages for the sake of a meal ticket. No more women who had to know how bitter the bread and how steep the stairs in other people's houses. No more clever, ambitious, energetic women who had to eat their hearts out in frustration because there was no avenue open for their activities, no work for their hands to do.

That we failed to take into consideration was that it is the immutable law of life that for all we get we must pay. And still less did we realize that the price of woman's economic freedom would be the broken hearts and blasted lives of many a man and girl.

Yet that is what has happened. That was what is bound to happen when men and women are thrown together every day in the intimacy of an office where they work and plan and strive together, with the same interests, the same hopes and desires. How is the man who in his boyhood has married a pretty doll, whom he has long outgrown and tired of, to keep from falling in love with some big-hearted, big-souled secretary in whom he finds the understanding and sympathy he craves? How can a romantic girl, who has known only callow boys who are filled with egotism and self-importance, fail to see her boss, who is mellow and wise and sophisticated and a ruler of men, as the Fairy Prince she has dreamed about, and give her heart to him?

The man is no villain. The girl is no husband-stealer nor home-wrecker. But the tragedy happens just because girls are thrown in contact with men in business, as they would not have been in the old days when married men saw few women except their own friends and met them only at formal parties.

Of course, not every man falls in love with his stenographer, nor does every stenographer see her in her employer, but when they do it makes a situation as black as can be woven out of the warp and woof of despair and hopelessness.

Here is what one of the girls who is going through this valley of despond, says about it: "I am a young secretary who is so desperately in love with her boss that she cannot even conceal it from his business associates. I have idolized him for two years and he has told me that he loves me, but unfortunately he has an attractive wife and two daughters. He also comes of a very prominent family, while I am a farmer's daughter. He has taken me to the theater and to dances afterward, which his wife found out about and raised the dickens."

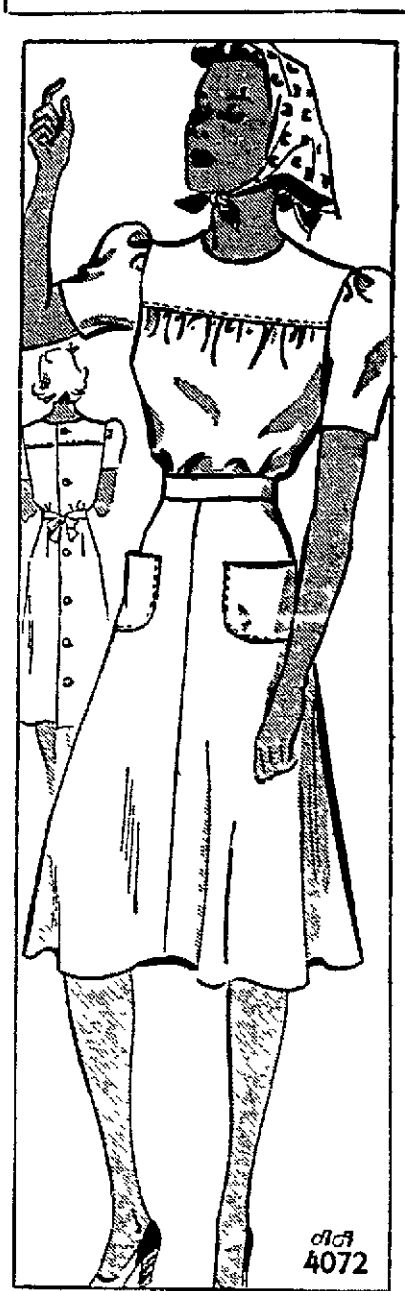

"Now she cuts me publicly and there is plenty of gossip in the little town we live in. I can't see why she objects as she knows her husband and I are lovers, and he doesn't let her anywhere since their quarrel, as he promised her would not as long as she ignored me as she does. He thinks we should all go places together and be pals."

Could anything be more pitiful than this letter with its childish selfishness that makes her willing to snatch what she wants for herself, no matter if it breaks up her husband and children of their father? Could anything be more naive than her admiration for a man who is such a cad that he tries to make his wife cover up his liaison and give it the appearance of respectability? Could anything show such utter lack of knowledge of the world as her belief that he ever intends to divorce his wife and marry her?

But nothing will wake her up, and the girls like her who are in love with married men, from their infatuation until they find themselves cast aside like broken toys.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX— We hear a lot about mothers forcing themselves as permanent guests on their children and expecting their children to take care of them. What about the children who come and camp down on their mothers and expect them to take care of them because it is easier to live on Mother than to support themselves? That is my fix. I was left a widow deadbeats who are not worth killing.

The world is full of weaklings who always come running back home to Mother whenever they encounter any rough sledding in life, and who dump all of their troubles and tribulations on her and expect her to bear them for them. They never think that Mother is old and tired and needs a rest, or that she has had her share of sorrows and should not have to bear their children's.

There is John, who is so temperamental that he can never find a job to suit him, and he won't work because he doesn't have to. He can always come back to Mother and be sure of three square meals a day. And there is Mary, who picks up on Mother and comes back to live on Mother when she quarrels with her husband, and who never even considers that she might as well stand a cantankerous man as for Mother to stand a lot of spoiled brats.

Many a lazy loafer would go to work and many a high-tempered wife would stay married instead of getting a divorce if they didn't have Mother to wish themselves on. So the remedy for all mothers with paralytic children is to emulate the birds. Push them out of the nest.

YESTERDAY: Tacks Adams, product of Andover and Yale, proposes a stunt to his three bonded bridge companions, Messrs. Van Harkness, Bill Steele, and Jumbo Cutler. He suggests they date girls from the phone book, named North, South, East and West, and bring them to a dinner on Long Island a month hence or forfeit $1,000.

Chapter Two
Take A Number
"Just a minute!" said in Steele. "Suppose we do pull this off. What'll your Uncle Dick say when we roll into his place with these points of the compass?"
"Ah!" Tacks wagged a finger. "Wait'll you hear how smart I am. My paternal uncle is in Europe for the summer. Therefore, he has no part in this affair except to provide champagne and other liquors which I will procure from his vast cellars. As for the dinner, that's on Uncle Dick too. I'm in cahoots with his housekeeper. Her name is Mrs. Dipsang and she's just like a mother to me."

Steele extended his hand. "Tacks, you're a genius. I'm all for this thing. It's got adventure in it. And adventures' what I crave about now. That and a drink. Hey, Gus?"

"I'm all for it," Van said. Tacks looked enthusiastically around the table. "Well, that makes three of us in the boat. How

Dear Mrs. Post: At a summer tea party is it proper, and perhaps even advisable, to serve iced tea instead of hot tea? And would the typical tea refreshments be served with the iced tea? When serving

EMPEROR PENGUINS

About 20 years ago, I heard a talk by an explorer who had visited the Antarctic regions. He had brought back moving pictures, and showed them during his lecture.

An emperor penguin

I thought the most interesting parts of the pictures were those which showed emperor penguins in their native home. These birds are the largest members of the penguin family, and are found in and around South Victoria Land, which belongs to the Antarctic continent. Penguins have been compared to "little men in dress suits." They stand upright, and walk—or waddle—around.

The emperor penguin sometimes grows to a height of three and a half feet. It spends all its life in the water or on the ice-covered "land."

In the water, the penguin dives for fish. It is an excellent diver, and as time goes on it grows fat. By and by, it swims to the icy shore. There it molts some of its feathers.

Going back to sea, the penguin finds more food, and becomes fat again. Later, in the breeding season, it spends a month or more on the land, taking little or no food. Oddly enough, the breeding season of the emperor penguin comes in the middle of the Antarctic winter. The cold winter months down there came at the same time as our summer.

The female lays only one or two eggs in her nest, which is a shallow hole, more or less lined with pebbles. It is a wonder how she is able to keep even one egg warm enough to hatch. The temperature needed for eggs of these birds is about 78 degrees above zero Fahrenheit. What a difference from the temperature of the air, which is often 40 degrees or more below zero!

The secret is that the female almost covers the egg, or pair of eggs, with her soft and plentiful breast feathers. The eggs rest on the top of the bird's feet, and that also helps keeps them warm.

In the breeding season, the penguins gather in large colonies. The death rate among the young is high.

Parents who lose their little ones seem to go on kidnapping trips. They try to find a baby penguin of another family which has been left unguarded. Often there are fights between adult penguins to decide which shall take care of certain baby birds.

Like the king penguins and other kinds of penguins, these birds of South Victoria Land are not able to fly. Their wings are simply flippers, which are useful in swimming and diving but which have no power to lift their owners into the air.

Babson Believes Inflation Nearer Today Than in '37

Fears Result of Administration's Spending Policies

BY ROGER BABSON

Gloucester, Mass.—Family breadwinners are sentenced to work 100 days this year for the public in order to meet government spending. Ten years ago, federal, state, and local expenses consumed only 15 per cent of the nation's income. Today, they are gobbling up nearly 30 per cent. The saddest part of the situation is that the wage workers and others who are the real sufferers from this constantly swelling tax bill do not realize what is happening. The politicians kid them into thinking that Rockefeller, Morgan, and General Motors are the only ones who pay taxes.

For five years, I have been hammering away on the growing percentage of national income being eaten up by government activities. In this connection, today's mail contained a very interesting letter from an Illinois reader. I would like to quote portions of it. "All of this explosive propaganda regarding high taxes is, to my mind, nothing but a lot of bunk. I have been at the head of a corporation for 26 years and as far as I am concerned and my corporation is concerned I see nothing on earth wrong with the present tax system. During 1931, 1932 and 1933, we paid no taxes to the federal government for the simple reason we did not make any money. When a corporation or an individual makes a profit there is no reason why we should not pay a tax."

Good Years
The years 1934, 1936, 1937 and 1938 were good years for us and 1939 is even better. I, therefore, see no reason why a lot of propaganda should be put out trying to influence the ignorant voter that the country is going to hell or somewhere else, as there is absolutely nothing to this line of stuff."

This letter is extremely significant. I wonder if many people feel the same as my correspondent does about taxes? Grant that they do, is this any reason for our government continuing to spend recklessly, to mortgage future generations, and to push us into inflation? Readers know that I have supported many things that the administration has proposed and adopted. Ever since President Roosevelt abandoned his economy platform of 1932, however, I have been 100 per cent opposed to his spending policies.

History shows that no nation can spend more money than it receives in taxes, for long, without bringing on inflation and creating a revolution. The United States has failed to balance its budget for nine long years! It is estimated that a total of 30 to 40 million people receive financial aid from federal, state and local governments. A huge army of a million federal office holders has been mobilized. A vast vested interest in public spending has been built up!

My correspondent says that taxes are not a burden in his case. He does not feel their pinch because his business has forged ahead fast even though his taxes have increased. But he cannot throw aside figures issued by the government which show that taxes are taking a far greater portion of profits and wages than ever before.

Spending At New Peak
Here is a table comparing federal receipts and expenditures in billions of dollars for recent years. Even 1937's expenditures, big as we thought they were, look small compared with today's outlay. Despite the highest tax collections in history, receipts were only enough to pay 60 per cent of the federal government's bills in 1939:

Fiscal Year	Ending	Receipts	Expenses
1930	42	3.9	5.1
1933	21	5.1	8.8
1936	41	8.1	7.7
1937	53	8.1	9.1
1938	62	7.7	9.1
1939	56	9.1

Every time I discuss public spending I receive a flood of mail from people who accuse me of being inhuman. They tell me we will have revolution if we do not take care of the 10,000,000 unemployed. I realize that these millions of unfortunates must be aided, although I totally disagree with my critics as to how they honestly can best be aided. However, of our huge $9,000,000,000 federal expenditures this year, only 25 per cent will go for relief of the unemployed. The balance is being spent for growing permanent bureaus, the army and navy, farm relief, and pegging prices of commodities such as silver and cotton.

Silver Purchase

Take the silver purchase program for instance. The United States treasury has bought nearly $1,000,000 worth of silver from all over the world in the last six years. We have almost single-handedly financed the Mexican government by our silver purchases. Our thanks for doing so was the stealing of our oil properties by that government. We have accumulated a mountain of silver bullion at a cost which is nearly three times its commercial value. And the sum total of our efforts to make silver a monetary unit again has been to destroy, perhaps forever, its monetary character in every country where six years ago it was part of the currency.

There are other examples of the disastrous results of our government's meddling with natural economic laws. These various projects have cost the nation billions of dollars which must be paid for in higher taxes for years to come. Furthermore, the cost of these disastrous experiments will not be paid by the Rockefeller, Morgan, and General Motors are the only ones who pay taxes.

Unless the American people wake up some day soon and charge their character and goals, I do not believe that spending can ever be controlled under our present democratic form of government. Two years ago inflation was in the headlines. Everyone was thinking about it, talking about it, hedging against it. From a news angle, however, it is now as dead as the proverbial door-nail. But inflation is far nearer now than it was two years ago. When it will strike no one knows. My advice to readers is: Remember that the United States and the whole world is rushing pell-mell toward inflation!

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Rutt

about it? Jumbo? You're the only hold-out."

The moon-faced one looked doubtful.

"Gee," he said, "Imagine me walking in on some gal named West and suggesting she let me get to know her. Why, I'd never have the crust."

Tacks thumped the telephone book. "Come on! Where's the old culler fight? Anyhow, the majority rules here. You're in whether you want to be or not. Or else you forfeit a thousand. Right, gang?"

"Right," echoed Van and Bill.

"Wrong," said Jumbo.

"The eyes have it," Tacks said, thumping the book again. "Okay, Bill! We'll begin with you. You take this directory, look up the Easts and choose your gal."

Grimacing, Bill Steele opened to the E's and ran his finger down the page.

"I can't find any Easts," he said presently. "There's nothing but East Broadways and East China Companies and East Side this and that."

"Read on," Tacks ordered sternly.

"Tell you what," Bill said. "I'll bring along the East Side Bean and Beet Company, Inc. How's that?"

"That's out. Hurry up and get yourself a girl."

"But there isn't a girl."

"A Woman's Different"

Tacks grabbed the book from him and ran his finger down the column of Easts. "By gosh, he's right though. There're only three private Easts listed here. All the rest are names of companies. There're the East Bros S. T. on Seventh Avenue...."

He looked up curiously. "What would S. T. mean?"

"Search me," Van said.

"Well," said Tacks, "it doesn't matter. Bill will have to go after one of the East Brothers S. T."

"But, gosh," objected Van, "that makes it a pipe for him. Easy enough to walk in on a man and state your business. But a woman's different. You've got to be clever with women. I thought this thing was a test of ingenuity. With a man, it'll be a cinch."

"Not necessarily," said Bill, who was greatly relieved.

"Thing is," Tacks said, "it's one of the East brothers or nothing. Well, do you agree or do we wrangle some more?"

"Let it go," Van said.

"Okay with you, Jumbo?"

"Okay."

Tacks sighed with relief. "That's that, then. All right, Van. Choose your partner."

Harkness scanned the directory. "Here's my baby," he announced in a minute. "Miss Dorothy South. Lives in a swell neighborhood, too."

"You're next Jumbo," Tacks passed him the book. "Snag yourself a tall, stream-lined blonde out of the Wests."

"Think Mae's in here?" Jumbo asked hopefully.

There was quite an assortment of West ladies. Jumbo discovered. He selected a Miss Luella.

"All right, Tacks!" Steele said. "Let's see you draw a number now. You've done all the talking so far and no acting. Come on!"

Tacks looked into the jungle of Norths.

"H'm," he said. "Not what you'd call a wide range, but here she is! Miss Patricia North... East 68th Street. Bet she's a ferocious redhead with a viper's tongue. Just my luck!"

"Well," now we've got this settled," Bill said, "What's the next move?"

Tacks glanced at his watch. "It's getting late. I'd say have dinner here. Then, after it, we'll try this thing out with one of us as the dog. My idea is to roll the bones to see which of us goes out and tries his luck tonight. How about that?"

The others nodded agreement.

Low Man

Stars, presumably tired of Alabama, fell upon New York City. Under the glow of its electric lights, with the neat bar and its bottles and shining glasses and Gus in his immaculate white coat, the terrace of the Penguin Club looked as gay and festive as a roof-garden. From below came the restless sounds of the city, minimized by the lofty, snooty position of the Penguin Club.

Tacks Adams brandished his closed fist above his head. It made a clicking sound.

"All set?" he inquired. "Low man has to go to work tonight."

"Right!" the other three agreed.

Tacks spoke to the dice. "Just treat me right, babies. Big Dick or box cars. I'm not particular." He rolled the dice out on the table.

A six and a five showed up. Tacks sat back, grinning.

"That's sure to let me out," he said. "Your dice, Bill."

Steele rolled a nine and was reasonably safe. Then Van Harkness achieved naught but a five.

"Looks like I'm the white-haired boy," he said gaily. "But do I care? I fear no woman living."

Jumbo Cutler was rubbing the dice between his palms.

"Come on, bones!" he crooned.

"Just a lil' sixtus will do. All right, honeys, do your stuff!" Then he spun them out and like lightning the pleased expression vanished from his face. His eyes bulged, almost with fright. "Uuuu! Aw, gee! Aw... honest, fellows, I can't go first. I simply can't."

The dice, lying placidly on the table, registered four. Tacks laughed delightedly.

"Do my eyes deceive me," he said, "or is that Little Joe? Little Joe, it is! Well, Jumbo my boy, your honor. Just put on that nice rakish Panama hat of yours, straighten that gosh-awful tie and fare forth into the night."

"Gosh, this—this is terrible,"

Fox Valley Area Has Low Ratio in Old Age Pensions

Relatively Small Number Of Aged Citizens in This Vicinity on Rolls

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — The counties in the immediate Fox river valley area have relatively fewer of their aged citizens on the old age assistance rolls than most other Wisconsin counties, a survey by the state pension department showed today.

For the state as a whole, 21 per cent of the population over 65 years of age is receiving old age assistance at the present time. The variation is from eight per cent in Kewaunee county, the lowest proportion in the state, to more than 50 per cent in some of the northern counties.

Those counties with a high proportion of their aged on the pension lists are generally those parts of the state where "economic conditions are such that the likelihood of aged being employed or to have accumulated sufficient savings for self-support are least," the pension department explained.

Agricultural Wealth
Conversely, the sections with low proportions of old age beneficiaries are the wealthier agricultural counties in southern and eastern Wisconsin.

The pension department reports that there has been an increase of one per cent per month in the total number of old age pensioners for the last two years. The present total is 46,087. No counties have experienced decreases, while in some the load has jumped more than fifty per cent during the last biennium.

Here are the figures on the proportion of persons over 65 receiving pensions in the Fox river valley counties and neighboring counties:

County	No. on A.A.	Pop. Over 65	Pct. on A.A.
Brown	595	4,926	13.9
Outagamie	793	4,480	17.7
Winnebago	1,118	6,396	17.5
Manitowoc	542	4,174	13.0
Calumet	173	1,390	12.4
Shawano	550	2,353	23.4
Waupaca	772	3,241	23.8
